President Truman Pledges Continuation of Roosevelt Foreign, Domestic Policies

Chief Executive Dedicates Late President's Home as Shrine

PROMISES TO APPLY NEW DEAL PRINCIPLES

Tributes in Many Lands Freshen Memory of Wartime Leader

By ALLAN FISHER

HYDE PARK, N. Y., April 12, (AP)—President Truman today pledged to "carry on in the way of Franklin D. Roosevelt" as he dedicated the late president's Hudson river estate as a national monument.

The former president died a year ago today.

Standing bareheaded on the stone veranda of the Roosevelt stone and stucco mansion, Mr. Truman said "we shall continue to fight" for his predecessor's "progressive and humane principles of the New Deal" and "principles of international cooperation."

The president said Mr. Roosevelt "saw clearly that we cannot continue to live isolated from other nations" and "recognized, above all, that our hope for the future of civilization, for the future of life itself, lay in the success of the United Nations."

He added that the former chief executive's foreign policy "called for fair, sympathetic and firm dealing with the other members of the family of nations."

Millions Hear Speech Via Radio

The president spoke before an audience of several thousand, including many government leaders as well as the ambassadors or ministers of eighteen foreign countries.

Millions more heard him via a world-girdling radio hookup.

Behind the president on the white-pillared front porch from which Mr. Roosevelt customarily had acknowledged with a laugh and a wave the election night cheers of his neighbors, were Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Interior Secretary J. A. Krug, and many others who had been friends and associates of the late president.

Mrs. Roosevelt was dressed in black. She stepped forward to a post behind a battery of microphones, and in formally presenting the house, her husband's rose garden grave and its surrounding green acres, she said:

"My husband's spirit lives in this house, in the library, and in the quiet garden where he wished his body to lie."

Speaking of his predecessor, Mr. Truman said.

"All over the globe plain people join with leaders and statesmen in recognition that it was largely because of him that civilization has survived. Only history can do him full justice.

New Deal—Realization of Hope

"The progressive and humane principles of the New Deal embodied the great hope which in an hour of extreme crisis President Roosevelt gave to the American people. As carried out in practice the New Deal became the realization of that hope."

He said the same principles applied to "legislation assuring full production and full employment, legislation for a health program, a Social Security program, an educational program, a program to provide emergency housing for veterans and to solve the long-range problem of decent homes for all Americans."

"These and other progressive measures stem," he said, "from the principles for which President

Senators Differ With President On A-Bomb Tests

Huffman and Lucas Will Continue To Press for Cancellation

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—President Truman today termed the proposed atomic bomb test "of vital importance" but senators who contend they would disquiet other nations clung to their determination to press for their cancellation.

A bill to authorize the possible destruction of some 100 navy ships for the two Pacific tests came up in the Senate, meanwhile, in the course of routine but was referred back to the naval committee, without discussion, at the request of Chairman Walsh (D-Mass).

Walsh told reporters the navy had requested the postponement in order to lay before the committee next week revised plans which might reduce the number of ships used. Plans now call for use of seventy-seven ships as targets in the first test and twenty-three others to be held as spares for the second. The authorization bill already has passed the House.

Sens. Huffman (D-Ohio) and Lucas (D-Ill), co-sponsors of a resolution to cancel the tests, said Mr. Truman's statement had not changed their minds. Lucas told a reporter he "cannot conceive that a test of such magnitude can be in keeping with our pursuit of world peace." Huffman announced in Columbus that he would press the resolution.

"Further tinkering with the atomic bomb until England, Russia and the United States have themselves proved the United Nations cannot succeed," he said, "means the blood of an atomic war may be upon our hands."

However, Sen. Hart (R-Conn), a former admiral, told the Senate that the navy cannot make postwar plans unless atomic bombs are tested on ships "without delay."

The president's statement reported assurances from the military planners that the revised target dates for the tests would be met. He had ordered a six-week postponement of the first test, originally set for May 15, on the ground that congressmen who wanted to see it could not attend then.

The first test, explosion of a bomb above the water, is slated now for around July 1. In the second test a bomb will be set off just below the surface of the sea.

Jones Court-Martial Is Abruptly Recessed

LONDON, April 12 (AP) — The United States Army court-martial of Staff Sgt. James M. Jones, Lichfield detention camp guard, was abruptly recessed today at the request of an unnamed "high authority" after witnesses testified that certain camp officers knew of and sometimes joined in clubbing prisoners.

Maj. Leland Smith, trial judge advocate, announced at the afternoon session that he had just received the request for recess, but he declined further comment. Court-martial President Col. Buhl Moore, Savannah, Ga., then ordered the recess until Tuesday over vigorous objections from counsel for Jones.

Tennessee Jail Food Can't Compare With Washington's, McFarland Says

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 12—(AP)—Earl McFarland may prefer Washington jail food to that served by Knox county, but he ate a hearty lunch today just the same.

The condemned rape-killer spurned his breakfast this morning and demanded that jailers furnish him better food.

"I'm not going to eat that slop," he told them. He ate lunch, however, and said it was fairly good but it still can't compare with that federal jail in Washington." The District of Columbia jail is more like a hotel than a penal institution, the ex-marine said.

The Washington jail is being subjected to a congressional inquiry after reports of inmates importing liquor for gambling parties, entertaining out-of-town models and conducting business ventures.

The Tennessean escaped April 3 from the jail, where he was awaiting execution for the 1944 rape-slaying of an 18-year-old government girl in Washington. He was accompanied on the break by Joseph D. Medley, who was recaptured in the city the same day.

McFarland then hitch-hiked to Knoxville where he was picked up yesterday by FBI agents. He said he had returned to East Tennessee to obtain funds from friends and relatives so he could flee the country.

"After I got out of the country I was going to join the French Foreign Legion," he stated.

Chinese Rift Is Widened; Truce Pact Faces Test

Communist Members of Truce Team Are Detained; Battle Rages

By TOM MASTERSON

KAYUAN, Manchuria, April 12—(AP)—A Chinese government commander placed Communist members of a truce team under confinement today and announced that a critical battle was in progress for possession of the important railway junction of Szepingkai, fifty-five miles north of here.

The whole truce agreement of last January—and with it China's prospects for peaceful unity—confronted a major test on these windswept plains, echoing today to gunfire and bickering voices.

(Gen. Marshall, who arranged the truce, left Washington to return to his job as special American envoy to China.)

Reds' Activities Increase

The truce team of government, Communist, and American army members arrived Tuesday in this government-held city on the fringe of the battle area.

Lt. Gen. Liang Hwa-Sheng, government deputy commander for the Northeast (Manchuria), said that since then the Communist activities in the area had increased. In consequence, he ordered the Communist members of the team confined to quarters for their own safety.

Communist members also were forbidden to use their shortwave radio. After some argument, the radio prohibition was extended to include government members also, but both sides still were able to use the American headquarters communications.

Changchun Is Goal

Liang also told correspondents that for the past six days Communist forces at Szepingkai had been putting up a stubborn defense against the Chinese First army, which is endeavoring to reach Changchun, eighty miles northeast of Szepingkai.

He declared he intended to "sweep away" all Communist opposition in the northward drive and expected the American-trained First army to be in Changchun, the Manchurian capital, within a week.

Reminded that the Russian occupation forces were scheduled to complete their withdrawal from Changchun two days hence, Liang acknowledged that government soldiers already in Changchun were insufficient to hold the city if the Communists decided to take it.

Soft Coal Strike Parleys Are Held

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Government officials embarked today on a series of conferences with individual leaders of the United Mine Workers and soft coal operators trying to work out some basis for renewed joint talks.

Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson and Special Conciliator Paul W. Fuller, after several of these informal meetings, gave no indication of progress toward a settlement of the twelve-day strike in the nation's bituminous coal mines.

Fuller began the day with a conference with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, who has told reporters he is confident he can bring Union Leader John L. Lewis and the operators together again in join meetings whenever he makes such a request to both sides.

However, Schwellenbach said he felt joint meetings would be useless for the time being. He said he hoped to have both sides in a frame of mind for a joint session by early next week.

Approximately 400,000 miners are idle while Lewis continues to maintain that his health and welfare fund proposal should have prior consideration in contract negotiations. The operators insist on consideration first of wages and hours.

Pioneer Missionary Among Indians Dies

HYATTSVILLE, Md., April 12 (AP)—The Rev. William Packer Blake, 88, pioneer missionary among the Indians in Oklahoma territory, died here yesterday at the home of his son, Nelson M. Blake.

Blake went to the territory in 1883 as a missionary among the Creek and Seminole Indians, and later served nineteen years as superintendent of a Seminole mission.

Cardinal Mooney Enters Hospital at Detroit

DETROIT, April 12 (AP)—Edward Cardinal Mooney was in Providence hospital today, suffering from what his physician described as a "minor heart condition."

Dr. Norman E. Clarke, the 63-year-old prelate's physician, said Cardinal Mooney was ordered to the hospital Thursday and will probably remain a patient for "a matter of many days."

Roberts Will Speak At Annual AP Luncheon

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP) — Owen J. Roberts, retired justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, will be the speaker at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press on April 22 at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

PITTSBURGH ELECTRICAL WORKERS ARE AWARDED 18-CENT WAGE BOOST

PITTSBURGH, April 12 (AP)—A wage increase of eighteen cents an hour, retroactive to November 16, 1945, was granted employes of the Duquesne Light Company in a decision announced tonight by a three-man arbitration board.

The company representative on the board, Maurice Scharf, dissented from the opinion, and announced he will "in due course file a dissenting opinion."

Also in disagreement with the award was Attorney Herman Lipstiz, appointed by the union.

Last February 12 a nineteen hour strike of the Independent Association of Duquesne Light Company Employes closed stores and schools, shut down mills and darkened streets and homes through an 800-square mile industrial area of Allegheny and Beaver counties.

British Troops To Be Withdrawn From Indonesia

Agreement Provides for Their Replacement by Dutch Forces

By ED CREAGH

LONDON, April 12 (AP) — British and Dutch officials agreed tonight on "a gradual withdrawal of British troops" from Indonesia, and their replacement by Dutch forces.

A brief communique gave no details, saying simply that agreement was reached on the necessary measures for "liquidation" of the war with Japan and for the withdrawal of the British forces in the Netherlands East Indies.

A foreign office spokesman said later that British troops have been withdrawn as Dutch troops became available, but added that "this process has been slow." The official Soviet news agency Tass reported from the Hague that 2,500 Dutch troops were transferred from Batavia to Bandoeng in the past three days and that other Dutch troops had been landed in Borneo.

Tass quoted Dutch press reports as saying Netherlands troops in Indonesia "will shortly receive a large quantity of British arms, including tanks."

The British communique was issued after a conference attended by Prime Minister Clement Attlee, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, Dutch Premier William Schermerhorn, his foreign minister, J. H. Van Royen, and active Governor-General N. J. Van Mook, of the Netherlands East Indies.

British troops, mostly Indian, were sent into Indonesia by Allied headquarters to disarm and round up Japanese troops there, and they have clashed repeatedly in battle with Indonesian forces. The Indonesians are seeking complete independence from Dutch rule.

Draft "Holiday" Receives Strong Support in House

Proposal To Raise Minimum Age to 20 Is Offered by May

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP) — A strong tide of sentiment for a draft "holiday" swept through the House today as it began debate on legislation extending the Selective Service law beyond May 15.

It was whipped up by members of the Military committee and by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga), of the Naval committee. Enthusiastic reception by the membership indicated strong support tomorrow when the actual voting begins.

Sharing popularity with Vinson's amendment to extend the draft law until February 15, 1946, but to prohibit inductions before October 15, 1946, was a proposal by Chairman May (D-Ky), of the Military committee, to raise the minimum draft age from 18 to 20. Vinson's idea is to give voluntary enlistments a trial.

As it came to the floor of the House with Military committee approval, the measure calls for a straight nine-months extension, with a service liability of eighteen months, a ban against induction of fathers and a ceiling on the strength of the armed forces.

House Committee Proposal

Tied in with that, but in a separate measure, is a House committee proposal to raise the pay of privates from $50 to $75 a month and give boosts, proportionately smaller as rank increases, to all grades up to colonel.

On the Senate side of the capitol, the Military committee yesterday reported out a measure for the full year's draft extension urged by the administration, with limitations similar to those which the House committee approved.

Along with the draft extension, the Senate group passed out for consideration on the floor a whole armload of pay raise plans, ranging from a raise for enlisted men only—$15 a month for privates down to $2 for top sergeants — through an extra $50 a month for everybody serving overseas, to a straight twenty per cent increase for all officers and men.

Compromise Is Likely

With such divergences between the houses, the guessing in the corridors was that the final version will be written in a Senate-House conference after each branch has passed its own bill.

Approved once by the House Military committee and then rejected, Vinson's "holiday" amendment would permit the president to reinstate inductions after October 15 if enlistments by that date demonstrate that the armed services cannot attain their manpower goals by July 1, 1947.

These goals, which the committee wrote in as ceilings on service strength, are 1,070,000 for the army, 558,000 for the navy and 108,000 for the marine corps.

McKeldin, Baltimore Mayor, Files For GOP Gubernatorial Nomination

Chinks in Various Tickets May Be Plugged This Weekend; Deadline Is Midnight Monday

By JAMES E. HAGUE

BALTIMORE, April 12. (AP)—Plugging the chinks in various tickets remained the chief chore this weekend of Maryland's contenders for public office with most of the major candidates already having declared their intentions.

There had been little doubt that by the end of this week, Republican Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, of Baltimore, last important figure to be heard from, would announce for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

McKeldin removed even those small doubts today by filing for the nomination. His announcement came a few days earlier than is his custom. He generally waits until the last day before making his decision known.

The deadline this year is next Monday at midnight when all candidacies for the June 24 primaries must be in the hands of the secretary of state.

There are two contenders for the Democratic nomination for senator, three major Democratic aspirants for governor and three candidates for the GOP gubernatorial spot. But there are still some vacancies on the various Democratic and Republican teams.

The filling of these holes and a continued Republican attempt to get the nomination for McKeldin without serious opposition were the weekend problems of the political soothsayers.

At the moment, Herman L. Mills, Hagerstown, and D. John Markey, Frederick, also are after the GOP gubernatorial nomination. Most attention in the McKeldin-Galen L. Tait camp has been given to attempts to persuade Mills, backed by the anti-Tait faction in the party, to accept another spot on the ticket. There was no comment from Mills.

Contenders for the Democratic senatorial nomination are Sen. George L. Radcliffe and Gov. O'Conor. The major Democratic gubernatorial aspirants are Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and W. Preston Lane, Jr.

All went busily about their tasks this week and there was no indication whatsoever that any intended to drop out of the race. No withdrawals were expected. As a matter of fact, Baldwin was believed to have crossed his personal rubicon when he supported Hugh A. Meade for the Second congressional district seat Baldwin now occupies.

Radcliffe has said that he intends to stay in the Senate, and expects to do so. O'Conor — once mentioned as a possible compro-

Baldwin Releases Congress Record

BALTIMORE, April 12—(AP)—Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, refused today to give his official congressional voting and attendance record to Mrs. Marie Bauernschmidt but instead released the record through the press.

Mrs. Bauernschmidt, executive secretary of the Baltimore Public School Association, criticized the Second district congressman last week for "absenteeism" and then asked Baldwin to send her a copy of his official record.

Baldwin said the record showed that of 101 roll calls in the House during the first session of the Seventy-ninth Congress, he was present and voted on seventy-five, absent twenty-two and paired on four.

Of 190 quorum or House calls, Baldwin said, the record showed he was present on sixty-seven. These calls "have no connection with legislation before the House," he said.

Baldwin contended that during his "short time in Congress, I have made twenty-five speeches on the floor of the House. This is many more than the average new member of Congress makes."

He is now serving his second term.

Mrs. Bauernschmidt made no immediate comment.

Cabinet Invites U.N. Commission To Make Probe

Would Determine If Germans Are Engaged in Atomic Research

CHARGES ARE TERMED FALSE AND "ABSURD"

Poland's Request for Action "Surprised" Spanish Republicans

By FRANK W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, April 12—(AP)—Franco Spain, in a cabinet statement early Saturday (Madrid time), firmly denied Poland's charges that it menaces world peace and invited the United Nations Security Council to send investigators to Spain to determine whether German scientists were engaged there in atomic research.

The statement said Spain rejects the Polish charges as false and added that they were "absurd."

Council delegates, widely scattered for the weekend before they will reassemble Monday with the Polish charges on the provisional agenda, could not be reached immediately for comment, but one delegation, which declined to be identified, earlier had said an investigation in Spain at Franco's invitation seemed logical.

Poland's request for action against Spain was presented to the council to the "surprise" of the Spanish Republicans and without consulting them, a representative of the exiled Republicans said today.

Action Came Suddenly

Fernando de Los Rios, special envoy of the Spanish Republicans sent here this week from Paris, said the Polish action had come suddenly and with no previous announcement.

Franco Spain itself reacted vigorously to the charges by Poland that the Madrid regime is threatening world peace and is harboring German scientists carrying on work on new weapons in this atomic age.

A Franco spokesman denied the charges and particularly a Paris report that there was an atomic research plant near Toledo operated by a German scientist.

It was apparent here that de Los Rios was somewhat disturbed over the fact that his group, recognized by Poland as the rightful government of Spain, was not consulted before the Polish delgate, Dr. Oscar Lange, filed his charges with the council.

But the parties concerned apparently found a working basis quickly for de Los Rios and Dr. Lange have met for a detailed discussion on diverse aspects of the Spanish problem.

The Polish delegation was working at top speed to have its case ready in the event it is called up next Monday afternoon by Chairman Quo Tai-Chi. The council will hold its next meeting at 3 p. m. EST Monday.

House Democrats Blast Hannegan, Demand Caucus

Action on "Incompetency" at Party Headquarters Is Sought

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP) — More than fifty House Democrats signed a petition today demanding a meeting of their colleagues to act on what they termed "incompetency and inefficiency" at the party's national headquarters.

The petition was an outgrowth of informal conferences during the day at which National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan and his aides were verbally lambasted for what the irate Democrats considered the second "boner" in recent weks.

Rep. Boren (D-Okla), a leader of the move, told a reporter that the petition would be presented tomorrow to House Democratic leaders.

He said it requested an official caucus, which probably would be held Monday. Such a session does not bind members on legislative matters, but gives them a chance to air their views.

Injurious to "Harmony"

"Evidently there is some incompetency and inefficiency in the Democratic National Committee office," Boren asserted. "This must be stopped because it is injurious to Democratic harmony."

Earlier, Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) and other House leaders had expressed belief it was unlikely the caucus would be held. Rayburn termed the whole affair a "gruesome mistake."

The discord broke out over a recent letter, sent over Hannegan's signatur, to most of the party's county chairmen throughout the nation. It advised them to select "the proper candidate" for Congress in the coming elections—those who would "courageously support President Truman's program x x x."

Committee officers said the letter was intended only for chairmen in districts now represented by Republicans. Through a clerical error, however, it was sent to many districts already represented by Democrats.

That is where the rub came. Democratic headquarters was embarrassed for the second time within a week.

Surplus Property Bill Is Passed by Senate

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Legislation strengthening veterans' rights to purchase surplus government property received Senate approval today.

It gives them first claim on certain types of property and rank second only to federal agencies in rights to purchase other types.

The measure was passed by voice vote and sent to the House after Republican demands for an investigation of surplus property disposal. They came from Sens. Wherry (R-Neb), Morse (R-Ore) and Langer (R-ND).

Langer proposing a Senate committee investigation, declared government agencies selling surplus war property had demonstrated "contempt" for congress by ignoring acts requiring preference for veterans.

Saying the history of surplus property sales demonstrated "the irresponsible leadership of the Democratic administration," he shouted:

"They will have to answer for it to the farmers and the veterans."

"There is widespread dissatisfaction with surplus property disposal," Morse declared. "An investigation should be made. Due notice has not been given the veterans of property available."

Air Line Pilots Threaten Strike; Seek Wage Boost

Issue, Involving TWA, Would Eventually Concern Other Carriers

By JAMES J. STREIBIG

Associated Press Aviation Reporter

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Air line pilots threatened a strike today over wage demands which their spokesman said would increase the present maximum annual pay from $13,200 to $16,000. It would be their first major stoppage.

Only one company, Transcontinental and Western Air, is involved in the walkout voted 812 to 9 by its airplane drivers, but the issue is such that eventually it would concern twelve other carriers who now use or intend to use four-engine planes.

Strike Looms This Month

David L. Behncke, president of the Air Line Pilots Association, said the strike will begin "one day during the week of April 21" unless President Truman intervenes under the provisions of the Railway Labor act.

Behncke sent notice of the strike vote to the National Mediation Board, through which disputes under the Railway Labor act are handled.

A spokesman for some of the air lines said that, while wages are in dispute, it appears that Behncke's opposition to proposals that the pilots negotiate on an industry-wide basis was an important factor in the strike decision.

The air lines using four-engine equipment have established a contractor negotiating committee headed by Ralph S. Damon, president of American Air Lines, to deal with ALPA.

TWA Has 1,300 Pilots

Behncke has met with this committee, but said, in response to a question, that he recognized it only insofar as it spoke for TWA.

Behncke opposed before the Civil Aeronautics Board the airlines' request for authority to deal jointly on employe contracts. The board authorized the joint dealings.

Behncke said the strike would ground all TWA aircraft, both domestic and international. The company has 100 planes and 1,300 pilots to serve its 28,000 miles of route.

ALPA, an AFL affiliate, represents about ninety-seven per cent of all scheduled air line pilots, Behncke said, and has 5,000 active pilots among its 6,000 members.

Marine Discharge Score Will Be Cut Next Monday

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP)—The marine corps announced today the discharge score for marines will be cut from thirty-eight to thirty-six points next Monday.

The corps estimated the reduction will mean the release of 8,800 enlisted men. Under a previously outlawed schedule, they would not have qualified for release until May when the score was due to drop from thirty-eight to thirty-three points.

The May 1 cut will be made regardless of today's two point reduction, the corps added.

Cancer "Very Probably" Is Virus Disease, New Evidence Indicates

By FRANK CAREY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 12 (AP) — New evidence that cancer in man is "very probably" a virus disease— that is, caused by organisms too tiny to be seen with an ordinary microscope—was presented to the American Chemical Society today.

The importance of this evidence is that it offers the possibility of narrowing the field of attack on cancer. At present, in the quest for the cause of cancer, investigators are following many different lines of research designed to determine whether the disease is due to viruses, or to bacteria, which are larger organisms, or to some mechanism in the body that might cause cells to multiply rapidly into a malignant growth under external stimulus.

The new evidence was highlighted by a report of an entirely new type of disorganized cancer growth in mice—the phenomenon of two distinctly different types of cancers growing side by side, although one only form of infected material was injected.

Dr. Roger J. Williams, of the University of Texas, said this "strongly suggests" that a virus-like agent is the cause of cancer, since known viruses, such as that of influenza have demonstrated an ability to produce two distinctly different effects in the same body.

Dr. O. John J. Bittner, of the University of Minnesota, told of experimental success in an avenue of research designed to produce "anti-serums" to combat cancerous growths.

Bittner disclosed that there is a "virus-like" agent in the milk of female mice of a cancerous strain and that the agent can be transmitted to nursing offspring in such a way as to produce breast cancer.

Senators Differ With President On A-Bomb Tests

Huffman and Lucas Will Continue To Press for Cancellation

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—President Truman today termed the proposed atomic bomb test "of vital importance" but senators who contend they would disquiet other nations clung to their determination to press for their cancellation.

A bill to authorize the possible destruction of some 100 navy ships for the two Pacific tests came up in the Senate, meanwhile, in the course of routine but was referred back to the naval committee, without discussion, at the request of Chairman Walsh (D-Mass).

Walsh told reporters the navy had requested the postponement in order to lay before the committee next week revised plans which might reduce the number of ships used. Plans now call for use of seventy-seven ships as targets in the first test and twenty-three others to be held as spares for the second. The authorization bill already has passed the House.

Sens. Huffman (D-Ohio) and Lucas (D-Ill), co-sponsors of a resolution to cancel the tests, said Mr. Truman's statement had not changed their minds. Lucas told a reporter he "cannot conceive that a test of such magnitude can be in keeping with our pursuit of world peace." Huffman announced in Columbus that he would press the resolution.

"Further tinkering with the atomic bomb until England, Russia and the United States have themselves proved the United Nations cannot succeed," he said, "means the blood of an atomic war may be upon our hands."

However, Sen. Hart (R-Conn), a former admiral, told the Senate that the navy cannot make postwar plans unless atomic bombs are tested on ships "without delay."

The president's statement reported assurances from the military planners that the revised target dates for the tests would be met. He had ordered a six-week postponement of the first test, originally set for May 15, on the ground that congressmen who wanted to see it could not attend then.

The first test, explosion of a bomb above the water, is slated now for around July 1. In the second test a bomb will be set off just below the surface of the sea.

Jones Court-Martial Is Abruptly Recessed

LONDON, April 12 (AP) — The United States Army court-martial of Staff Sgt. James M. Jones, Lichfield detention camp guard, was abruptly recessed today at the request of an unnamed "high authority" after witnesses testified that certain camp officers knew of and sometimes joined in clubbing prisoners.

Maj. Leland Smith, trial judge advocate, announced at the afternoon session that he had just received the request for recess, but he declined further comment. Court-martial President Col. Buhl Moore, Savannah, Ga., then ordered the recess until Tuesday over vigorous objections from counsel for Jones.

Tennessee Jail Food Can't Compare With Washington's, McFarland Says

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 12—(AP)—Earl McFarland may prefer Washington jail food to that served by Knox county, but he ate a hearty lunch today just the same.

The condemned rape-killer spurned his breakfast this morning and demanded that jailers furnish him better food.

"I'm not going to eat that slop," he told them. He ate lunch, however, and said it was fairly good but it still can't compare with that federal jail in Washington." The District of Columbia jail is more like a hotel than a penal institution, the ex-marine said.

The Washington jail is being subjected to a congressional inquiry after reports of inmates importing liquor for gambling parties, entertaining out-of-town models and conducting business ventures.

The Tennessean escaped April 3 from the jail, where he was awaiting execution for the 1944 rape-slaying of an 18-year-old government girl in Washington. He was accompanied on the break by Joseph D. Medley, who was recaptured in the city the same day.

McFarland then hitch-hiked to Knoxville where he was picked up yesterday by FBI agents. He said he had returned to East Tennessee to obtain funds from friends and relatives so he could flee the country.

"After I got out of the country I was going to join the French Foreign Legion," he stated.

Chinese Rift Is Widened; Truce Pact Faces Test

Communist Members of Truce Team Are Detained; Battle Rages

By TOM MASTERSON

KAYUAN, Manchuria, April 12—(AP)—A Chinese government commander placed Communist members of a truce team under confinement today and announced that a critical battle was in progress for possession of the important railway junction of Szepingkai, fifty-five miles north of here.

The whole truce agreement of last January—and with it China's prospects for peaceful unity—confronted a major test on these windswept plains, echoing today to gunfire and bickering voices.

(Gen. Marshall, who arranged the truce, left Washington to return to his job as special American envoy to China.)

Reds' Activities Increase

The truce team of government, Communist, and American army members arrived Tuesday in this government-held city on the fringe of the battle area.

Lt. Gen. Liang Hwa-Sheng, government deputy commander for the Northeast (Manchuria), said that since then the Communist activities in the area had increased. In consequence, he ordered the Communist members of the team confined to quarters for their own safety.

Communist members also were forbidden to use their shortwave radio. After some argument, the radio prohibition was extended to include government members also, but both sides still were able to use the American headquarters communications.

Changchun Is Goal

Liang also told correspondents that for the past six days Communist forces at Szepingkai had been putting up a stubborn defense against the Chinese First army, which is endeavoring to reach Changchun, eighty miles northeast of Szepingkai.

He declared he intended to "sweep away" all Communist opposition in the northward drive and expected the American-trained First army to be in Changchun, the Manchurian capital, within a week.

Reminded that the Russian occupation forces were scheduled to complete their withdrawal from Changchun two days hence, Liang acknowledged that government soldiers already in Changchun were insufficient to hold the city if the Communists decided to take it.

Soft Coal Strike Parleys Are Held

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Government officials embarked today on a series of conferences with individual leaders of the United Mine Workers and soft coal operators trying to work out some basis for renewed joint talks.

Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson and Special Conciliator Paul W. Fuller, after several of these informal meetings, gave no indication of progress toward a settlement of the twelve-day strike in the nation's bituminous coal mines.

Fuller began the day with a conference with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, who has told reporters he is confident he can bring Union Leader John L. Lewis and the operators together again in join meetings whenever he makes such a request to both sides.

However, Schwellenbach said he felt joint meetings would be useless for the time being. He said he hoped to have both sides in a frame of mind for a joint session by early next week.

Approximately 400,000 miners are idle while Lewis continues to maintain that his health and welfare fund proposal should have prior consideration in contract negotiations. The operators insist on consideration first of wages and hours.

Pioneer Missionary Among Indians Dies

HYATTSVILLE, Md., April 12 (AP)—The Rev. William Packer Blake, 88, pioneer missionary among the Indians in Oklahoma territory, died here yesterday at the home of his son, Nelson M. Blake.

Blake went to the territory in 1883 as a missionary among the Creek and Seminole Indians, and later served nineteen years as superintendent of a Seminole mission.

Cardinal Mooney Enters Hospital at Detroit

DETROIT, April 12 (AP)—Edward Cardinal Mooney was in Providence hospital today, suffering from what his physician described as a "minor heart condition."

Dr. Norman E. Clarke, the 63-year-old prelate's physician, said Cardinal Mooney was ordered to the hospital Thursday and will probably remain a patient for "a matter of many days."

Roberts Will Speak At Annual AP Luncheon

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP) — Owen J. Roberts, retired justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, will be the speaker at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press on April 22 at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

PITTSBURGH ELECTRICAL WORKERS ARE AWARDED 18-CENT WAGE BOOST

PITTSBURGH, April 12 (AP)—A wage increase of eighteen cents an hour, retroactive to November 16, 1945, was granted employes of the Duquesne Light Company in a decision announced tonight by a three-man arbitration board.

The company representative on the board, Maurice Scharf, dissented from the opinion, and announced he will "in due course file a dissenting opinion."

Also in disagreement with the award was Attorney Herman Lipstiz, appointed by the union.

Last February 12 a nineteen hour strike of the Independent Association of Duquesne Light Company Employes closed stores and schools, shut down mills and darkened streets and homes through an 800-square mile industrial area of Allegheny and Beaver counties.

British Troops To Be Withdrawn From Indonesia

By ED CREAGH

LONDON, April 12 (AP) — British and Dutch officials agreed tonight on "a gradual withdrawal of British troops" from Indonesia, and their replacement by Dutch forces.

A brief communique gave no details, saying simply that agreement was reached on the necessary measures for "liquidation" of the war with Japan and for the withdrawal of the British forces in the Netherlands East Indies.

A foreign office spokesman said later that British troops have been withdrawn as Dutch troops became available, but added that "this process has been slow." The official Soviet news agency Tass reported from the Hague that 2,500 Dutch troops were transferred from Batavia to Bandoeng in the past three days and that other Dutch troops had been landed in Borneo.

Tass quoted Dutch press reports as saying Netherlands troops in Indonesia "will shortly receive a large quantity of British arms, including tanks."

The British communique was issued after a conference attended by Prime Minister Clement Attlee, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, Dutch Premier William Schermerhorn, his foreign minister, J. H. Van Royen, and active Governor-General N. J. Van Mook, of the Netherlands East Indies.

British troops, mostly Indian, were sent into Indonesia by Allied headquarters to disarm and round up Japanese troops there, and they have clashed repeatedly in battle with Indonesian forces. The Indonesians are seeking complete independence from Dutch rule.

Draft "Holiday" Receives Strong Support in House

Proposal To Raise Minimum Age to 20 Is Offered by May

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP) — A strong tide of sentiment for a draft "holiday" swept through the House today as it began debate on legislation extending the Selective Service law beyond May 15.

It was whipped up by members of the Military committee and by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga), of the Naval committee. Enthusiastic reception by the membership indicated strong support tomorrow when the actual voting begins.

Sharing popularity with Vinson's amendment to extend the draft law until February 15, 1946, but to prohibit inductions before October 15, 1946, was a proposal by Chairman May (D-Ky), of the Military committee, to raise the minimum draft age from 18 to 20. Vinson's idea is to give voluntary enlistments a trial.

As it came to the floor of the House with Military committee approval, the measure calls for a straight nine-months extension, with a service liability of eighteen months, a ban against induction of fathers and a ceiling on the strength of the armed forces.

House Committee Proposal

Tied in with that, but in a separate measure, is a House committee proposal to raise the pay of privates from $50 to $75 a month and give boosts, proportionately smaller as rank increases, to all grades up to colonel.

On the Senate side of the capitol, the Military committee yesterday reported out a measure for the full year's draft extension urged by the administration, with limitations similar to those which the House committee approved.

Along with the draft extension, the Senate group passed out for consideration on the floor a whole armload of pay raise plans, ranging from a raise for enlisted men only—$15 a month for privates down to $2 for top sergeants — through an extra $50 a month for everybody serving overseas, to a straight twenty per cent increase for all officers and men.

Compromise Is Likely

With such divergences between the houses, the guessing in the corridors was that the final version will be written in a Senate-House conference after each branch has passed its own bill.

Approved once by the House Military committee and then rejected, Vinson's "holiday" amendment would permit the president to reinstate inductions after October 15 if enlistments by that date demonstrate that the armed services cannot attain their manpower goals by July 1, 1947.

These goals, which the committee wrote in as ceilings on service strength, are 1,070,000 for the army, 558,000 for the navy and 108,000 for the marine corps.

McKeldin, Baltimore Mayor, Files For GOP Gubernatorial Nomination

By JAMES E. HAGUE

BALTIMORE, April 12. (AP)—Plugging the chinks in various tickets remained the chief chore this weekend of Maryland's contenders for public office with most of the major candidates already having declared their intentions.

There had been little doubt that by the end of this week, Republican Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, of Baltimore, last important figure to be heard from, would announce for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

McKeldin removed even those small doubts today by filing for the nomination. His announcement came a few days earlier than is his custom. He generally waits until the last day before making his decision known.

The deadline this year is next Monday at midnight when all candidacies for the June 24 primaries must be in the hands of the secretary of state.

There are two contenders for the Democratic nomination for senator, three major Democratic aspirants for governor and three candidates for the GOP gubernatorial spot. But there are still some vacancies on the various Democratic and Republican teams.

The filling of these holes and a continued Republican attempt to get the nomination for McKeldin without serious opposition were the weekend problems of the political soothsayers.

At the moment, Herman L. Mills, Hagerstown, and D. John Markey, Frederick, also are after the GOP gubernatorial nomination. Most attention in the McKeldin-Galen L. Tait camp has been given to attempts to persuade Mills, backed by the anti-Tait faction in the party, to accept another spot on the ticket. There was no comment from Mills.

Contenders for the Democratic senatorial nomination are Sen. George L. Radcliffe and Gov. O'Conor. The major Democratic gubernatorial aspirants are Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and W. Preston Lane, Jr.

All went busily about their tasks this week and there was no indication whatsoever that any intended to drop out of the race. No withdrawals were expected. As a matter of fact, Baldwin was believed to have crossed his personal rubicon when he supported Hugh A. Meade for the Second congressional district seat Baldwin now occupies.

Radcliffe has said that he intends to stay in the Senate, and expects to do so. O'Conor — once mentioned as a possible compro-

Baldwin Releases Congress Record

BALTIMORE, April 12—(AP)—Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, refused today to give his official congressional voting and attendance record to Mrs. Marie Bauernschmidt but instead released the record through the press.

Mrs. Bauernschmidt, executive secretary of the Baltimore Public School Association, criticized the Second district congressman last week for "absenteeism" and then asked Baldwin to send her a copy of his official record.

Baldwin said the record showed that of 101 roll calls in the House during the first session of the Seventy-ninth Congress, he was present and voted on seventy-five, absent twenty-two and paired on four.

Of 190 quorum or House calls, Baldwin said, the record showed he was present on sixty-seven. These calls "have no connection with legislation before the House," he said.

Baldwin contended that during his "short time in Congress, I have made twenty-five speeches on the floor of the House. This is many more than the average new member of Congress makes."

He is now serving his second term.

Mrs. Bauernschmidt made no immediate comment.

Action on "Incompetency" at Party Headquarters Is Sought

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP) — More than fifty House Democrats signed a petition today demanding a meeting of their colleagues to act on what they termed "incompetency and inefficiency" at the party's national headquarters.

The petition was an outgrowth of informal conferences during the day at which National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan and his aides were verbally lambasted for what the irate Democrats considered the second "boner" in recent weks.

Rep. Boren (D-Okla), a leader of the move, told a reporter that the petition would be presented tomorrow to House Democratic leaders.

He said it requested an official caucus, which probably would be held Monday. Such a session does not bind members on legislative matters, but gives them a chance to air their views.

Injurious to "Harmony"

"Evidently there is some incompetency and inefficiency in the Democratic National Committee office," Boren asserted. "This must be stopped because it is injurious to Democratic harmony."

Earlier, Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) and other House leaders had expressed belief it was unlikely the caucus would be held. Rayburn termed the whole affair a "gruesome mistake."

The discord broke out over a recent letter, sent over Hannegan's signatur, to most of the party's county chairmen throughout the nation. It advised them to select "the proper candidate" for Congress in the coming elections—those who would "courageously support President Truman's program x x x."

Committee officers said the letter was intended only for chairmen in districts now represented by Republicans. Through a clerical error, however, it was sent to many districts already represented by Democrats.

That is where the rub came. Democratic headquarters was embarrassed for the second time within a week.

Surplus Property Bill Is Passed by Senate

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Legislation strengthening veterans' rights to purchase surplus government property received Senate approval today.

It gives them first claim on certain types of property and rank second only to federal agencies in rights to purchase other types.

The measure was passed by voice vote and sent to the House after Republican demands for an investigation of surplus property disposal. They came from Sens. Wherry (R-Neb), Morse (R-Ore) and Langer (R-ND).

Langer proposing a Senate committee investigation, declared government agencies selling surplus war property had demonstrated "contempt" for congress by ignoring acts requiring preference for veterans.

Saying the history of surplus property sales demonstrated "the irresponsible leadership of the Democratic administration," he shouted:

"They will have to answer for it to the farmers and the veterans."

"There is widespread dissatisfaction with surplus property disposal," Morse declared. "An investigation should be made. Due notice has not been given the veterans of property available."

Air Line Pilots Threaten Strike; Seek Wage Boost

By JAMES J. STREIBIG

Associated Press Aviation Reporter

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Air line pilots threatened a strike today over wage demands which their spokesman said would increase the present maximum annual pay from $13,200 to $16,000. It would be their first major stoppage.

Only one company, Transcontinental and Western Air, is involved in the walkout voted 812 to 9 by its airplane drivers, but the issue is such that eventually it would concern twelve other carriers who now use or intend to use four-engine planes.

Strike Looms This Month

David L. Behncke, president of the Air Line Pilots Association, said the strike will begin "one day during the week of April 21" unless President Truman intervenes under the provisions of the Railway Labor act.

Behncke sent notice of the strike vote to the National Mediation Board, through which disputes under the Railway Labor act are handled.

A spokesman for some of the air lines said that, while wages are in dispute, it appears that Behncke's opposition to proposals that the pilots negotiate on an industry-wide basis was an important factor in the strike decision.

The air lines using four-engine equipment have established a contractor negotiating committee headed by Ralph S. Damon, president of American Air Lines, to deal with ALPA.

TWA Has 1,300 Pilots

Behncke has met with this committee, but said, in response to a question, that he recognized it only in so far as it spoke for TWA.

Behncke opposed before the Civil Aeronautic Board the airlines' request for authority to deal jointly on employe contracts. The board authorized the joint dealings.

Behncke said the strike would ground all TWA aircraft, both domestic and international. The company has 100 planes and 1,300 pilots to serve its 28,000 miles of route.

ALPA, an AFL affiliate, represents about ninety-seven per cent of all scheduled air line pilots, Behncke said, and has 5,000 active pilots among its 6,000 members.

Cabinet Invites U.N. Commission To Make Probe

Would Determine if Germans Are Engaged in Atomic Research

By FRANK W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, April 12—(AP)—Franco Spain, in a cabinet statement early Saturday (Madrid time), firmly denied Poland's charges that it menaces world peace and invited the United Nations Security Council to send investigators to Spain to determine whether German scientists were engaged there in atomic research.

The statement said Spain rejects the Polish charges as false and added that they were "absurd."

Council delegates, widely scattered for the weekend before they will reassemble Monday with the Polish charges on the provisional agenda, could not be reached immediately for comment, but one delegation, which declined to be identified, earlier had said an investigation in Spain at Franco's invitation seemed logical.

Poland's request for action against Spain was presented to the council to the "surprise" of the Spanish Republicans and without consulting them, a representative of the exiled Republicans said today.

Action Came Suddenly

Fernando de Los Rios, special envoy of the Spanish Republicans sent here this week from Paris, said the Polish action had come suddenly and with no previous announcement.

Franco Spain itself reacted vigorously to the charges by Poland that the Madrid regime is threatening world peace and is harboring German scientists carrying on work on new weapons in this atomic age.

A Franco spokesman denied the charges and particularly a Paris report that there was an atomic research plant near Toledo operated by a German scientist.

It was apparent here that de Los Rios was somewhat disturbed over the fact that his group, recognized by Poland as the rightful government of Spain, was not consulted before the Polish delgate, Dr. Oscar Lange, filed his charges with the council.

But the parties concerned apparently found a working basis quickly for de Los Rios and Dr. Lange have met for a detailed discussion on diverse aspects of the Spanish problem.

The Polish delegation was working at top speed to have its case ready in the event it is called up next Monday afternoon by Chairman Quo Tai-Chi. The council will hold its next meeting at 3 p. m. EST Monday.

Marine Discharge Score Will Be Cut Next Monday

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—The marine corps announced today the discharge score for marines will be cut from thirty-eight to thirty-six points next Monday.

The corps estimated the reduction will mean the release of 8,800 enlisted men. Under a previously outlawed schedule, they would not have qualified for release until May when the score was due to drop from thirty-eight to thirty-three points.

The May 1 cut will be made regardless of today's two point reduction, the corps added.

Cancer "Very Probably" Is Virus Disease, New Evidence Indicates

By FRANK CAREY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 12 (AP) — New evidence that cancer in man is "very probably" a virus disease— that is, caused by organisms too tiny to be seen with an ordinary microscope—was presented to the American Chemical Society today.

The importance of this evidence is that it offers the possibility of narrowing the field of attack on cancer. At present, in the quest for the cause of cancer, investigators are following many different lines of research designed to determine whether the disease is due to viruses, or to bacteria, which are larger organisms, or to some mechanism in the body that might cause cells to multiply rapidly into a malignant growth unter external stimulus.

The new evidence was highlighted by a report of an entirely new type of disorganized cancer growth in mice—the phenomenon of two distinctly different types of cancers growing side by side, although one only form of infected material was injected.

Dr. Roger J. Williams, of the University of Texas, said this "strongly suggests" that a virus-like agent is the cause of cancer, since known viruses, such as that of influenza have demonstrated an ability to produce two distinctly different effects in the same body.

Dr. O. John J. Bittner, of the University of Minnesota, told of experimental success in an avenue of research designed to produce "anti-serums" to combat cancerous growths.

Bittner disclosed that there is a "virus-like" agent in the milk of female mice of a cancerous strain and that the agent can be transmitted to nursing offspring in such a way as to produce breast cancer.

Further Good Service For the Sixth District

AS WAS EXPECTED by his close friends, Representative J. Glenn Beall, of Frostburg and Cumberland, has formally declared his candidacy for re-nomination at the Republican primary election June 24, and has filed his certificate at Annapolis.

In so doing, Beall again demonstrated the possession of both political and common sense. He was too astute to be swayed by the political baits dangled before him by those who would like to see him out of the way in this congressional district—and the Democrats would give anything to see him removed—and by those of his own party who honestly perceived in him qualifications for either the governorship or a federal senatorship.

There is no gainsaying the fact that Beall has both qualifications and experience for either of those two offices. Perhaps some day he will land in one or the other. But for the present he is doing so splendidly in his congressional seat that his retention of it is now as much needed as it is amply assured, while there are hazards obtaining in the wider field of a state so preponderantly Democratic and so well controlled and manipulated politically by Democratic machinery that make it unsafe for him to essay any such voyages at this particular time. These facts are remindful of the old saying that it is a wise child who knows his own father, or something to that effect.

Beall will in all probability go into the June primary unopposed, which is as it should be; and the chances are that he will have virtually no opposition on the Democratic side in the November election, or such weak opposition that his re-election by a greater majority than that by which he was returned in 1944 will be assured. That was by the astonishing majority of 17,212, a jump ahead of his majority of 14,537 when first elected. In both elections he shattered all precedents by obtaining majorities in all five of the counties of the district.

Because of his brilliant and highly successful representation, the Democrats of the district long since gave up all hopes of ever defeating him in the district. Writing in the "Baltimore Sun" several months back, its able political reporter, Louis J. O'Donnell, duly recorded that holding, "Democratic politicians in the district," he wrote, "where that party's leadership rests in the hands of E. Brooke Lee, of Montgomery county; W. Preston Lane, Jr., of Washington county, and William C. Walsh, of Allegany county—concede that Mr. Beall has cultivated the area so assiduously in the three years he has been in Congress that they have little prospect of redeeming the seat at the forthcoming election."

Those who have conceded Mr. Beall's standing with the people of the district have used the words "cultivated" and "exploited," in describing his activities therein. They have noted that he has been in every part of the district from time to time and "one important [Democratic] party leader" was quoted by O'Donnell as saying that "he's been campaigning twenty-four hours a day every day since" he was first elected.

Mr. Beall has been all over the district, time and again, and he knows its people and its economy as perhaps no other man. But he has not been filling the district seat in the national House with the sole idea of being re-elected on the strength of back-slapping and soft-soaping. Being the astute man that he is, he has felt that his chances of remaining in the House have depended almost wholly upon the nature of his representative services therein, and he has worked assiduously, alertly, even aggressively in being the people's servant.

How Beall has managed to cover his district, mingle with its people and consult with them on their needs and desires, while maintaining what is among national records for responding to roll calls in the House and giving attention to his multitudinous office demands has been really marvelous.

But the key there lies in his naive admission that he "really likes the work—believe it or not." He has thrown his whole heart and soul into the job, and his record speaks for itself, a record of fidelity to the trust reposed in him which has in itself done all the campaigning or "cultivating" or "exploiting" that is necessary and which, in fact, is the very best that can be done. No request, however trivial, has ever been ignored by their representative, and in returning him for another two years, the people of the district will have assured themselves of the presence in Washington of a trustworthy and dependable servant. That is what has clinched the seat for him—and with steel rivets.

New Party Chairman Hits Back Effectively

THE WISH that is father to the thought among a good many Democrats has prompted a spread of the inference that B. Carroll Reece, the new Republican national chairman is a "Bricker man." Much stress has been laid upon it for the palpable purpose of causing discontent among Republicans.

But Reece has scotched that thing in no uncertain terms—and, by the way, this newspaper likes the prompt manner in which the new party chairman is giving attention to Democratic propaganda and its falsehoods.

Reece has made it known that he has an open mind on the question of the GOP presidential nominee for 1948, which of course, is meet and proper. "I want it understood," he declared, "that I am not anybody's man insofar as selecting a candidate is concerned. It is not my purpose to grind anyone's axe for 1948 or to turn the grindstone for anyone else." Previously he had given reminder that it is the province of the party chairman "to elect and not to select."

This newspaper likes the way in which Reece is turning the tables on Robert E. Hennegan, his counterpart in the Democratic party, with the publication of facts about secret agreements in international affairs and about blunders made in domestic matters. There has been need for straight talking about these things because, as Reece declared, the Democratic publicity machine has been deceiving the public about many of them.

And particularly it likes the way in which the new chairman is stressing the fact that the Republican party is the true liberal party today, because it stands for the protection and enhancement of individual freedom as against the collectivistic theories and policies that are being followed by the administrationists. This is something on which the voters should be further enlightened in the face of the deceptive propaganda that is being circulated in frantic efforts to show that the Democratic party is liberal.

A Nylon Tragedy Out in Illinois

HERE is an item that should make local women weep with sympathy for the young woman concerned.

It comes from Aurora, Ill. and is about a subject uppermost in the minds of women everywhere—nylon hose.

A Chicago department store, it is related, mailed a card to one of its Aurora customers, Joyce Kline, 21, informing her that a pair of nylons was being held in her name until she called for them.

Tickled at the big opportunity, Miss Kline asked her employer for the day off and made the forty-mile trip into Chicago. She stood in line for two hours, bought the coveted hose and caught a train home. The roundtrip fare was $1.73.

On reaching home, Miss Joyce decided to refresh herself with a bath. She picked up some wastepaper from a table and stuffed it into a salamander to heat some water.

When she went to try on her new nylons, she couldn't find them. Then she remembered—she had put them on the table with the wastepaper and had burned them.

The moral of this thing, of course, is that precious nylons shoulud not be subjected to any sort of hazard once they are in hand.

Dual Feeling Is Seen among Solons About Mr. Truman

By MARK SULLIVAN

President Truman, at Chicago last week, in a press conference he held for high school students of journalism, was asked a question about the poll tax. His reply, as described by professional newsmen present, was that the poll tax is a matter to be settled by the states.

Publication of Mr. Truman's reply stirred interest in Washington, especially in Congress. In the past, while a senator, Mr. Truman has voted for proposals that the poll tax be ended by act of Congress. Recollection of this led to wonder whether Mr. Truman has consciously changed his position, or whether his off-hand answer to a young girl student of journalism was given without much reflection. To that speculation the answer might be double. It might be that the off-hand answer expressed the true Truman, and that his votes in the Senate express the Truman who had had time to give thought to political considerations, as of the time when he was in the Senate.

Act of Conciliation

If Mr. Truman has consciously changed his position, if he now holds that the poll tax should be left to the states, then his conversion—or his gesture, if it was that—would be regarded by Congress as an act of conciliation toward that body on one of the broad issues upn which the two have been at loggerheads.

[Since this was written, President Truman announced that he still favors federal anti-poll tax legislation.—Editor.]

The broad issue is trespass by the federal government upon functions of the states. The issue has come up in several forms, each consisting of a request by Mr. Truman for legislation, with refusal or resistance by Congress.

All the forty-eight states have unemployment insurance systems, each paying to unemployed workers specified amounts per week, for a specified number of weeks. Mr. Truman asked Congress to enact a nation-wide standard of payment, running up to $25 a week, and a nation-wide standard of twenty-six weeks. He did not propose that the state systems be superseded, or that any financial burden be put upon the states—the money for the additional payment was to be provided by the federal government.

State Intrusion Seen

Nevertheless, Congress resisted. It regarded the president's proposal as an intrusion upon the states—to the extent, at the least, of the federal government's imposing upon the states a standard different from what the states had judged to be proper for their varying conditions. The feeling of Congress was expressed earnestly and eloquently in a statement which said that if Congress should permit the federal camel to get his nose this far into the tents of the states, it would be only a matter of time until the state systems would disappear, the federal government take over all.

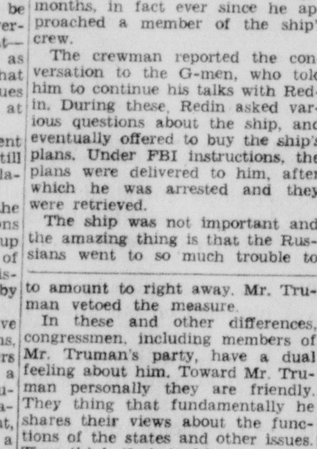

Before the war, the states had employment services, acting as contacts between workers seeking jobs and employers. During the war these state services were taken over by the federal government and merged into the United States Employment Service. The transfer seemed reasonable as an aid to the mobilization of workers for the war effort. After the war ended, Mr. Truman asked Congress to enact that the federal agency be continued. Specifically he avoided asking that the continuance be permanent; he asked for it only until such time as the postwar movement of war workers from war-time jobs to peacetime ones be concluded.

Some Justification

This request for continuation for a limited period had some justification. But, again, Congress felt that if the federal camel were permitted to remain a year, he might remain permanently. Congress enacted that the services be returned to the states at a date so early as to amount to right away. Mr. Truman vetoed the measure.

In these and other differences, congressmen, including members of Mr. Truman's party, have a dual feeling about him. Toward Mr. Truman personally they are friendly. They thing that fundamentally he shares their views about the functions of the states and other issues. They think that, in his requests to Congress for legislation he unavoidably acts as spokesman of executive departments under him. The aggregate of these, congressmen call "bureaucracy." Their determination to restrain the power of the bureaucracy and limit or reduce its size, goes hand in hand with their determination to prevent the federal government from taking over state functions.

STATE MOTOR CHIEF

W. LEE ELGIN was appointed Maryland commissioner of motor vehicles by Governor O'Conor in 1939, a post he has held since. He is a former mayor of Hagerstown, a veteran of World War I, and was at one time a member of the Democratic State Central Committee. He has been advocating the adoption by the state of the permanent automobile license plate system.

THE RACE IS ON

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Arrest of Russian Naval Officer Had Truman's Approval, Pearson Reveals

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 12—Inside fact about the arrest of Russian Naval Officer Nicolai Redin is that J. Edgar Hoover's G-men had their case sewed up 100 per cent before they cracked down on him. The facts were even placed before President Truman in advance.

Those attending the White House conference regarding Redin included hard-working Attorney General Tom Clark, Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson, and the president himself. Clark outlined the facts briefly and then asked Acheson:

"Now, if this is going to embarrass our relations with Russia, I'll hold it up."

"The only thing I'm interested in," replied Acheson, "is whether you have a case. If you have, then go ahead."

Clark replied that, unquestionably, J. Edgar Hoover had built up an airtight case, and outlined the record briefly. Truman expressed great interest and said he would like to see the record himself.

Shadowed for Eight Months

The record consists of about 100 pages conclusively showing that Redin tried to buy and eventually did obtain the plans of the USS Yellowstone. The FBI had been shadowing him for about eight months, in fact ever since he approached a member of the ship's crew.

The crewman reported the conversation to the G-men, who told him to continue his talks with Redin. During these, Redin asked various questions about the ship, and eventually offered to buy the ship's plans. Under FBI instructions, the plans were delivered to him, after which he was arrested and they were retrieved.

The ship was not important and the amazing thing is that the Russians went so much trouble to try to get its blueprints. The incident showed a complete lack of knowledge regarding United States naval vessels. Importance of the incident is that it reveals an overall plan by the Russians to secure information of any kind regarding American military and naval secrets.

Presidential Humor

In addition to being a red-hot promoter of air travel, Civil Aeronautics Board Vice-Chairman Oswald Ryan—like all Hoosiers—never overlooks a chance to advertise the virtues of his home state.

At the White House recently, Ryan was giving the president an earful on how fortunate Truman was to be able to fly over Indiana on air trips to Missouri.

"I can always identify Indiana from the air because of its great scenic beauty," expanded Ryan. "It's always a thrill to fly over it."

"Oh, yes, it's a beautiful state, no doubt," agreed Truman. "But I always identify it from the air by the Huckleberry Finn system."

"What do you mean?" asked the CAB official.

"Well, Huckleberry distinguished the various states by their colors in school maps. I follow the same formula. Indiana is pink and Missouri is green."

Atomic Vandenberg

Atomic scientists pay tribute to the broad-mindedness of Michigan's Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg regarding atomic energy legislation. When the GOP leader first came back from London, he plunged into the Atomic Energy committee debates without knowing all that had gone before and came up with an amendment which threatened to hamstring future scientific experimentation.

However, when Vandenberg sat down with the scientists, he was the first to realize his mistake, and since then has taken the lead in trying to write a bill which will give scientific research ample scope yet also safeguard the military secrets of the USA.

Scientists say he has shown more statesmanship than any other member of the committee. Least statesmanship, they also say, is shown by Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, another Republican.

At one time the atomic bill contained clauses very close to thought control, whereby the exchange of any kind of atomic knowledge, even non-military, could be a criminal offense. This restriction could have affected use of atomic energy for civilian purposes such as running automobiles or power projects.

The atomic bill also provided for the most far-reaching censorship ever seen in the United States, so that the "acquistion" of atomic knowledge, even if not published, could be a criminal offense. Those provisions have now been modified. The rewritten bill is by no means perfect, but atomic energy is a new field, and the job of governing it is difficult.

Capital Chaff

The National Association of Manufacturers has been spending thousands of dollars to put the OPA out of business. But a Sunday baseball game almost did the trick. Chester Bowles, catcher, was hit by a wild ball pitched by Paul Porter, who, in turn, sprained his ankle. Housing Czar Wilson Wyatt, on the same team, sprained his back. Other players, all OPA-ites, are still stiff and sore. . . If Attorney General Tom Clark doesn't pull James M. McInery out of the hair of senators, he will undo all the excellent goodwill Clark has built up. . . Ex-Gov. George Earle, of Pennsylvania, recently discharged from the navy and newly-married in Turkey to a Belkian 19-year-old, is planning a nationwide speaking tour to urge that we get busy right away for war with Russia. . . Harold Ickes pays his respects to the columnists in this month's Pageant. His remarks are pungent. . . Though more than 8,000,00 men have been discharged from the army, Surgeon General Norman T. Kirk is still hoarding army doctors to such an extent that about one-third the State of Maine has only one veterinarian. Other Maine vets are still kept in the army.

Rooking War Veterans

If Housing Czar Wilson Wyatt ever gets a spare minute, he might use it to crack down on a mean racket—selling apartments to war veterans.

This practice has sprung up on an increasing scale. It gives wealthy vets a sharp advantage, also penalizes the young fellows just starting out in life who haven't several thousand dollars in ready cash. Here's how it works.

Speculators have been approaching apartment-house owners, urging them to divide their houses up and sell shares, one share being equal to one apartment. Once the apartment is sold, the present occupant can be dispossessed. Then the veteran must either beg, borrow or steal the cash, sometimes running to as much as $8,000 to keep his apartment. Or if he buys an apartment, he must then help manage the apartment house—no mean feat for amateur non-realtors. Otherwise it is necessary to appoint a management firm at a high fee to run the house for them. Either way the veteran gets it in the neck.

Note—On the other hand, some veterans go to the extreme of not paying their rent and refusing to live up to apartment house regulations. Since it is almost impossible to get a court order dispossessing a veteran for non-payment of rent or an infraction of the rules, some landlords prefer to sell out.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Well, they just finished taking a new census in Los Angeles, and something has to be done to stop the flow of people into this city . . after all, we're beginning to run out of trees!

The mayor is quite worried about it. It's got to the point where he can't present the key to the city to visiting celebrities anymore . . . he's afraid if they opened it up, half the population would fall out. But we did get a little bit of unexpected relief the other day . . . Edward Arnold took his girdle off, and four families unintentionally returned to Oklahoma.

But one interesting thing that the census showed was that last year 48,000 new babies were born in Los Angeles . . . This is twice as many as the previous record. In fact, the stork is still in Palm Springs recuperating.

But it's a very simple thing taking a census here in Hollywood. They don't have to go to all the trouble that they do in other cities . . . they just go to Crosby and Cantor and say, "How much?"

Domestic Picture Is Seen Bettered If Roosevelt Lived

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 12.—These words are being written just a year to the day and the hour that a flash came over the teletype announcing that Franklin D. Roosevelt had died. In the span of that time that has elapsed, the nation and the world have had an opportunity to evaluate the meaning of that event.

Would things have been different nationally and internationally if Mr. Roosevelt had lived, and how different? This question inevitably arises as one surveys what actually has happened.

If Mr. Roosevelt's health had remained good so that he could have tackled postwar problems with vigor, it seems plausible to suppose that he would have dealt with the last twelve months far more effectively than has President Truman.

Better Strike Situation

Mr. Roosevelt would have been more successful with the labor situation than his successor because he would have recognized the importance of reconversion and getting production balanced with demand. To accomplish this, he probably would have retained wartime controls on both wages and prices. He would have relinquished controls gradually.

Retention of wage and salary control appears now as the one step that would have prevented the present era of inflation. A readjustment in rates to care for the take-home-pay problem would have been inevitable but a national labor board directed by the president doubtless would have fixed on a fifteen per cent or even seventeen per cent increase of basic rates without the costly strikes.

Advantage in Russian Situation

Mr. Roosevelt would have been active in maintaining the United Nations as an organization working for peace and in this respect his policy would have been no different than that of Mr. Truman. There would have been one advantage—Mr. Roosevelt knew what he had promised Russia and would have been able to deal with Moscow more effectively than has Mr. Truman. This is no criticism of the present incumbent because, after all, he came into office handicapped by a lack of information. The Truman administration under the circumstances has done an excellent job.

In relations with Congress, Mr. Roosevelt might have fared worse than has Mr. Truman because the feeling between the executive and legislative departments was bitter a year ago. Mr. Truman has by no means gotten his wishes on legislation but he is on better terms with the senators and representatives than was Mr. Roosevelt.

No Punishment for Navy

It seems certain that the late president would have dealt with the problem of the armed services far differently than has Mr. Truman. The navy would certainly not have been punished after its magnificent showing in the war. Mr. Roosevelt would never have allowed the navy to be weakened nor would he ever have made the blunder of forcing a merger on any or the armed services when by honest conviction so many of the men in the navy and marine corps feel that the defense of the United States is thereby being impaired.

Mr. Roosevelt would probably have asked the heads of the armed services to form a council to study the best plan for defense. He would not have taken sides as to a concrete plan for unification till the military experts had threshed out the mistakes and achievements of World War II. Mr. Roosevelt had a thorough knowledge of what powerful blows had been and could be struck by air power but he also knew what the navy has meant to America. He was the best friend the navy ever had and that's one reason why the war against Japan was shortened and Japan was rendered virtually helpless even before the atomic bomb was dropped.

Demobilization Likely the Same

As for demobilization, Mr. Roosevelt probably would not have been able to stem the clamor for withdrawal of troops from overseas at a faster pace than was warranted. He would hve been up against much the same opposition in Congress to extension of the draft but in the end he would have worked out compromises. Mr. Roosevelt's experience would have been invaluable in the postwar period.

Those who fought the New Deal, on the other hand, have felt quite relieved in the last twelve months that Mr. Roosevelt's aggressive handling of domestic problems was not copied by Mr. Truman. The conservatives were for a while inclined to support the present chief executive but lately they have veered to their own kind of conservatives in the Republican ranks. So politics is just the same as it would have been, international affairs are not much different, and only in the domestic picture might there have been considerable change in the tempo of reconversion to civilian production.

The Joy Of Unloading

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I always like to stand and watch the unloading of a wagon of produce from the country, or the unloading of a ship from some distant port. I think of all the toil and planning that went into that load of fruitage. And then I think of the endless health and happineess that soon is sure to result from that unloading.

It is inspiring to visit the mounments that generous men and women have left behind, as their contribution to future generations, as a result of their toil and vesion. Fine libraries, schools, hospitals, and churches. Go through the great museums and at galleries, and there you will see contributions, that have been given for the pure joy of giving, joy unloaded for the benefit of those with that priceless inheritanee of appreciation.

How tragic is the dissipation of wealth, gained by another On the other hand, how inspiring to see it unloaded for the benefit of the many. Andrew Carnegie did it in the form of libraries that he scattered far and wide. And the Rockefellers have been doing it for several generations, in a variety of ways.

People who give away their earned wealth may die poor, but they die enriched! I think of that beautiful Clements Library of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, created through the joy, love, and generosity of William L. Clements, with probably the finest collection of Americana items in existence, a monument for the ages. I understand, however, that he died poor in possessions, but certainly not in spirit.

There is no life comparable with the life of Christ. Yet, at no time, could he point to a spot that he could call home. Daily he unloaded his spirit, comforting and restoring the sick, blessing the children along his way, and rebuilding the faith of all who came within his influence. And now, for nearly two thousand years, that influence has been unloaded upon a world too busy and unthinking to make the truths he spread universal in their application. His Golden Rule would transform all nations and all peoples into one happy family!

The things we give away, somehow keep coming back to us, in a more golden garb than when they so happily went from us.

The Wisconsin Restaurant Association is agitating for a National Soup day. It should be observed on the first of the month because when it comes to soup that's the day Dad is in it.

The association also urges that split pea be named the national soup. This is sure to get a rise from the chicken noodle and beef broth schools of thought.

A noteworthy broth is the vegetable soup dispensed by the corner beanery. It contains everything. In fact, it is a sort of liquid hash.

Zadok Dumkopf tried to get a bowl of broth on credit the other day, but failed. What he had in mind was some lease-lentil soup.

— o —

While establishing a National Soup day let's do something about the soda crackers that are served with the stuff. Recently we've been served some that had the consistency and taste of inner tube patches.

No one knows who invented soup. Or why. However, without it there would never have sprung up our flourishing napkin industry.

In Paris they say a great chef is known by the exquisite flavor of his soup. Over here a good cook is anybody who can serve up the stuff when its still warm.

Further Good Service For the Sixth District

AS WAS EXPECTED by his close friends, Representative J. Glenn Beall, of Frostburg and Cumberland, has formally declared his candidacy for re-nomination at the Republican primary election June 24, and has filed his certificate at Annapolis.

In so doing, Beall again demonstrated the possession of both political and common sense. He was too astute to be swayed by the political baits dangled before him by those who would like to see him out of the way in this congressional district—and the Democrats would give anything to see him removed—and by those of his own party who honestly perceived in him qualifications for either the governorship or a federal senatorship.

There is no gainsaying the fact that Beall has both qualifications and experience for either of those two offices. Perhaps some day he will land in one or the other. But for the present he is doing so splendidly in his congressional seat that his retention of it is now as much needed as it is amply assured, while there are hazards obtaining in the wider field of a state so preponderantly Democratic and so well controlled and manipulated politically by Democratic machinery that make it unsafe for him to essay any such voyages at this particular time. These facts are remindful of the old saying that it is a wise child who knows his own father, or something to that effect.

Beall will in all probability go into the June primary unopposed, which is as it should be; and the chances are that he will have virtually no opposition on the Democratic side in the November election, or such weak opposition that his re-election by a greater majority than that by which he was returned in 1944 will be assured. That was by the astonishing majority of 17,212, a jump ahead of his majority of 14,537 when first elected. In both elections he shattered all precedents by obtaining majorities in all five of the counties of the district.

Because of his brilliant and highly successful representation, the Democrats of the district long since gave up all hopes of ever defeating him in the district. Writing in the "Baltimore Sun" several months back, its able political reporter, Louis J. O'Donnell, duly recorded that holding, "Democratic politicians in the district," he wrote, "where that party's leadership rests in the hands of E. Brooke Lee, of Montgomery county; W. Preston Lane, Jr., of Washington county, and William C. Walsh, of Allegany county—concede that Mr. Beall has cultivated the area so assiduously in the three years he has been in Congress that they have little prospect of redeeming the seat at the forthcoming election."

Those who have conceded Mr. Beall's standing with the people of the district have used the words "cultivated" and "exploited," in describing his activities therein. They have noted that he has been in every part of the district from time to time and "one important [Democratic] party leader" was quoted by O'Donnell as saying that "he's been campaigning twenty-four hours a day every day since" he was first elected.

Mr. Beall has been all over the district, time and again, and he knows its people and its economy as perhaps no other man. But he has not been filling the district seat in the national House with the sole idea of being re-elected on the strength of back-slapping and soft-soaping. Being the astute man that he is, he has felt that his chances of remaining in the House have depended almost wholly upon the nature of his representative services therein, and he has worked assiduously, alertly, even aggressively in being the people's servant.

How Beall has managed to cover his district, mingle with its people and consult with them on their needs and desires, while maintaining what is among national records for responding to roll calls in the House and giving attention to his multitudinous office demands has been really marvelous.

But the key there lies in his naive admission that he "really likes the work—believe it or not." He has thrown his whole heart and soul into the job, and his record speaks for itself, a record of fidelity to the trust reposed in him which has in itself done all the campaigning or "cultivating" or "exploiting" that is necessary and which, in fact, is the very best that can be done. No request, however trivial, has ever been ignored by their representative, and in returning him for another two years, the people of the district will have assured themselves of the presence in Washington of a trustworthy and dependable servant. That is what has clinched the seat for him—and with steel rivets.

New Party Chairman Hits Back Effectively

THE WISH that is father to the thought among a good many Democrats has prompted a spread of the inference that B. Carroll Reece, the new Republican national chairman is a "Bricker man." Much stress has been laid upon it for the palpable purpose of causing discontent among Republicans.

But Reece has scotched that thing in no uncertain terms—and, by the way, this newspaper likes the prompt manner in which the new party chairman is giving attention to Democratic propaganda and its falsehoods.

Reece has made it known that he has an open mind on the question of the GOP presidential nominee for 1948, which of course, is meet and proper. "I want it understood," he declared, "that I am not anybody's man insofar as selecting a candidate is concerned. It is not my purpose to grind anyone's axe for 1948 or to turn the grindstone for anyone else." Previously he had given reminder that it is the province of the party chairman "to elect and not to select."

This newspaper likes the way in which Reece is turning the tables on Robert E. Hennegan, his counterpart in the Democratic party, with the publication of facts about secret agreements in international affairs and about blunders made in domestic matters. There has been need for straight talking about these things because, as Reece declared, the Democratic publicity machine has been deceiving the public about many of them.

And particularly it likes the way in which the new chairman is stressing the fact that the Republican party is the true liberal party today, because it stands for the protection and enhancement of individual freedom as against the collectivistic theories and policies that are being followed by the administrationists. This is something on which the voters should be further enlightened in the face of the deceptive propaganda that is being circulated in frantic efforts to show that the Democratic party is liberal.

A Nylon Tragedy Out in Illinois

HERE is an item that should make local women weep with sympathy for the young woman concerned.

It comes from Aurora, Ill. and is about a subject uppermost in the minds of women everywhere—nylon hose.

A Chicago department store, it is related, mailed a card to one of its Aurora customers, Joyce Kline, 21, informing her that a pair of nylons was being held in her name until she called for them.

Tickled at the big opportunity, Miss Kline asked her employer for the day off and made the forty-mile trip into Chicago. She stood in line for two hours, bought the coveted hose and caught a train home. The roundtrip fare was $1.73.

On reaching home, Miss Joyce decided to refresh herself with a bath. She picked up some wastepaper from a table and stuffed it into a salamander to heat some water.

When she went to try on her new nylons, she couldn't find them. Then she remembered—she had put them on the table with the wastepaper and had burned them.

The moral of this thing, of course, is that precious nylons shoiud not be subjected to any sort of hazard once they are in hand.

Dual Feeling Is Seen among Solons About Mr. Truman

By MARK SULLIVAN

President Truman, at Chicago last week, in a press conference he held for high school students of journalism, was asked a question about the poll tax. His reply, as described by professional newsmen present, was that the poll tax is a matter to be settled by the states.

Publication of Mr. Truman's reply stirred interest in Washington, especially in Congress. In the past, while a senator, Mr. Truman has voted for proposals that the poll tax be ended by act of Congress. Recollection of this led to wonder whether Mr. Truman has consciously changed his position, or whether his off-hand answer to a young girl student of journalism was given without much reflection. To that speculation the answer might be double. It might be that the off-hand answer expressed the true Truman, and that his votes in the Senate express the Truman who had had time to give thought to political considerations, as of the time when he was in the Senate.

Act of Conciliation

If Mr. Truman has consciously changed his position, if he now holds that the poll tax should be left to the states, then his conversion—or his gesture, if it was that—would be regarded by Congress as an act of conciliation toward that body on one of the broad issues upn which the two have been at loggerheads.

[Since this was written, President Truman announced that he still favors federal anti-poll tax legislation.—Editor.]

The broad issue is trespass by the federal government upon functions of the states. The issue has come up in several forms, each consisting of a request by Mr. Truman for legislation, with refusal or resistance by Congress.

All the forty-eight states have unemployment insurance systems, each paying to unemployed workers specified amounts per week, for a specified number of weeks. Mr. Truman asked Congress to enact a nation-wide standard of payment, running up to $25 a week, and a nation-wide standard of twenty-six weeks. He did not propose that the state systems be superseded, or that any financial burden be put upon the states—the money for the additional payment was to be provided by the federal government.

State Intrusion Seen

Nevertheless, Congress resisted. It regarded the president's proposal as an intrusion upon the states—to the extent, at the least, of the federal government's imposing upon the states a standard different from what the states had judged to be proper for their varying conditions. The feeling of Congress was expressed earnestly and eloquently in a statement which said that if Congress should permit the federal camel to get his nose this far into the tents of the states, it would be only a matter of time until the state systems would disappear, the federal government take over all.

Before the war, the states had employment services, acting as contacts between workers seeking jobs and employers. During the war these state services were taken over by the federal government and merged into the United States Employment Service. The transfer seemed reasonable as an aid to the mobilization of workers for the war effort. After the war ended, Mr. Truman asked Congress to enact that the federal agency be continued. Specifically he avoided asking that the continuance be permanent; he asked for it only until such time as the postwar movement of war workers from war-time jobs to peacetime ones be concluded.

Some Justification

This request for continuation for a limited period had some justification. But, again, Congress felt that if the federal camel were permitted to remain a year, he might remain permanently. Congress enacted that the services be returned to the states at a date so early as to amount to right away. Mr. Truman vetoed the measure.

In these and other differences, congressmen, including members of Mr. Truman's party, have a dual feeling about him. Toward Mr. Truman personally they are friendly. They thing that fundamentally he shares their views about the functions of the states and other issues. They think that, in his requests to Congress for legislation he unavoidably acts as spokesman of executive departments under him. The aggregate of these, congressmen call "bureaucracy." Their determination to restrain the power of the bureaucracy and limit or reduce its size, goes hand in hand with their determination to prevent the federal government from taking over state functions.

THE RACE IS ON

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 12—Inside fact about the arrest of Russian Naval Officer Nicolai Redin is that J. Edgar Hoover's G-men had their case sewed up 100 per cent before they cracked down on him. The facts were even placed before President Truman in advance.

Those attending the White House conference regarding Redin included hard-working Attorney General Tom Clark, Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson, and the president himself. Clark outlined the facts briefly and then asked Acheson:

"Now, if this is going to embarrass our relations with Russia, I'll hold it up."

"The only thing I'm interested in," replied Acheson, "is whether you have a case. If you have, then go ahead."

Clark replied that, unquestionably, J. Edgar Hoover had built up an airtight case, and outlined the record briefly. Truman expressed great interest and said he would like to see the record himself.

Shadowed for Eight Months

The record consists of about 100 pages conclusively showing that Redin tried to buy and eventually did obtain the plans of the USS Yellowstone. The FBI had been shadowing him for about eight months, in fact ever since he approached a member of the ship's crew.

The crewman reported the conversation to the G-men, who told him to continue his talks with Redin. During these, Redin asked various questions about the ship, and eventually offered to buy the ship's plans. Under FBI instructions, the plans were delivered to him, after which he was arrested and they were retrieved.

The ship was not important and the amazing thing is that the Russians went to so much trouble to try to get its blueprints. The incident showed a complete lack of knowledge regarding United States naval vessels. Importance of the incident is that it reveals an overall plan by the Russians to secure information of any kind regarding American military and naval secrets.

Presidential Humor

In addition to being a red-hot promoter of air travel, Civil Aeronautics Board Vice-Chairman Oswald Ryan—like all Hoosiers—never overlooks a chance to advertise the virtues of his home state.

At the White House recently, Ryan was giving the president an earful on how fortunate Truman was to be able to fly over Indiana on air trips to Missouri.

"I can always identify Indiana from the air because of its great scenic beauty," expanded Ryan. "It's always a thrill to fly over it."

"Oh, yes, it's a beautiful state, no doubt," agreed Truman. "But I always identify it from the air by the Huckleberry Finn system."

"What do you mean?" asked the CAB official.

"Well, Huckleberry distinguished the various states by their colors in school maps. I follow the same formula. Indiana is pink and Missouri is green."

Atomic Vandenberg

Atomic scientists pay tribute to the broad-mindedness of Michigan's Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg regarding atomic energy legislation. When the GOP leader first came back from London, he plunged into the Atomic Energy committee debates without knowing all that had gone before and came up with an amendment which threatened to hamstring future scientific experimentation.

However, when Vandenberg sat down with the scientists, he was the first to realize his mistake, and since then has taken the lead in trying to write a bill which will give scientific research ample scope yet also safeguard the military secrets of the USA.

Scientists say he has shown more statesmanship than any other member of the committee. Least statesmanship, they also say, is shown by Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, another Republican.

At one time the atomic bill contained clauses very close to thought control, whereby the exchange of any kind of atomic knowledge, even non-military, could be a criminal offense. This restriction could have affected use of atomic energy for civilian purposes such as running automobiles or power projects.

The atomic bill also provided for the most far-reaching censorship ever seen in the United States, so that the "acquistion" of atomic knowledge, even if not published, could be a criminal offense. Those provisions have now been modified. The rewritten bill is by no means perfect, but atomic energy is a new field, and the job of governing it is difficult.

Capital Chaff

The National Association of Manufacturers has been spending thousands of dollars to put the OPA out of business. But a Sunday baseball game almost did the trick. Chester Bowles, catcher, was hit by a wild ball pitched by Paul Porter, who, in turn, sprained his ankle. Housing Czar Wilson Wyatt, on the same team, sprained his back. Other players, all OPA-ites, are still stiff and sore. . . If Attorney General Tom Clark doesn't pull James M. McInery out of the hair of senators, he will undo all the excellent goodwill Clark has built up. . . Ex-Gov. George Earle, of Pennsylvania, recently discharged from the navy and newly-married in Turkey to a Belkian 19-year-old, is planning a nationwide speaking tour to urge that we get busy right away for war with Russia. . . Harold Ickes pays his respects to the columnists in this month's Pageant. His remarks are pungent. . . Though more than 8,000,00 men have been discharged from the army, Surgeon General Norman T. Kirk is still hoarding army doctors to such an extent that about one-third the State of Maine has only one veterinarian. Other Maine vets are still kept in the army.

Rooking War Veterans

If Housing Czar Wilson Wyatt ever gets a spare minute, he might use it to crack down on a mean racket—selling apartments to war veterans.

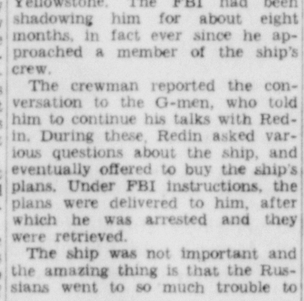

This practice has sprung up on an increasing scale. It gives wealthy vets a sharp advantage, also penalizes the young fellows just starting out in life who haven't several thousand dollars in ready cash. Here's how it works.

Speculators have been approaching apartment-house owners, urging them to divide their houses up and sell shares, one share being equal to one apartment. Once the apartment is sold, the present occupant can be dispossessed. Then the veteran must either beg, borrow or steal the cash, sometimes running to as much as $8,000 to keep his apartment. Or if he buys an apartment, he must then help manage the apartment house—no mean feat for amateur non-realtors. Otherwise it is necessary to appoint a management firm at a high fee to run the house for them. Either way the veteran gets it in the neck.

Note—On the other hand, some veterans go to the extreme of not paying their rent and refusing to live up to apartment house regulations. Since it is almost impossible to get a court order dispossessing a veteran for non-payment of rent or an infraction of the rules, some landlords prefer to sell out.

STATE MOTOR CHIEF

W. LEE ELGIN was appointed Maryland commissioner of motor vehicles by Governor O'Conor in 1939, a post he has held since. He is a former mayor of Hagerstown, a veteran of World War I, and was at one time a member of the Democratic State Central Committee. He has been advocating the adoption by the state of the permanent automobile license plate system.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Well, they just finished taking a new census in Los Angeles, and something has to be done to stop the flow of people into this city . . . after all, we're beginning to run out of trees!

The mayor is quite worried about it. It's got to the point where he can't present the key to the city to visiting celebrities anymore . . . he's afraid if they opened it up, half the population would fall out. But we did get a little bit of unexpected relief the other day . . . Edward Arnold took his girdle off, and four families unintentionally returned to Oklahoma.

But one interesting thing that the census showed was that last year 48,000 new babies were born in Los Angeles . . . This is twice as many as the previous record. In fact, the stork is still in Palm Springs recuperating.

But it's a very simple thing taking a census here in Hollywood. They don't have to go to all the trouble that they do in other cities . . . they just go to Crosby and Cantor and say, "How much?"

Domestic Picture Is Seen Bettered If Roosevelt Lived

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 12.—These words are being written just a year to the day and the hour that a flash came over the teletype announcing that Franklin D .Roosevelt had died. In the span of that time that has elapsed, the nation and the world have had an opportunity to evaluate the meaning of that event.

Would things have been different nationally and internationally if Mr. Roosevelt had lived, and how different? This question inevitably arises as one surveys what actually has happened.

If Mr. Roosevelt's health had remained good so that he could have tackled postwar problems with vigor, it seems plausible to suppose that he would have dealt with the last twelve months far more effectively than has President Truman.

Better Strike Situation

Mr. Roosevelt would have been more successful with the labor situation than his successor because he would have recognized the importance of reconversion and getting production balanced with demand. To accomplish this, he probably would have retained wartime controls on both wages and prices. He would have relinquished controls gradually.

Retention of wage and salary control appears now as the one step that would have prevented the present era of inflation. A readjustment in rates to care for the take-home-pay problem would have been inevitable but a national labor board directed by the president doubtless would have fixed on a fifteen per cent or even seventeen per cent increase of basic rates without the costly strikes.

Advantage in Russian Situation

Mr. Roosevelt would have been active in maintaining the United Nations as an organization working for peace and in this respect his policy would have been no different than that of Mr. Truman. There would have been one advantage—Mr. Roosevelt knew what he had promised Russia and would have been able to deal with Moscow more effectively than has Mr. Truman. This is no criticism of the present incumbent because, after all, he came into office handicapped by a lack of information. The Truman administration under the circumstances has done an excellent job.

In relations with Congress, Mr. Roosevelt might have fared worse than has Mr. Truman because the feeling between the executive and legislative departments was bitter a year ago. Mr. Truman has by no means gotten his wishes on legislation but he is on better terms with the senators and representatives than was Mr. Roosevelt.

No Punishment for Navy

It seems certain that the late president would have dealt with the problem of the armed services far differently than has Mr. Truman. The navy would certainly not have been punished after its magnificent showing in the war. Mr. Roosevelt would never have allowed the navy to be weakened nor would he ever have made the blunder of forcing a merger on any or the armed services when by honest conviction so many of the men in the navy and marine corps feel that the defense of the United States is thereby being impaired.

Mr. Roosevelt would probably have asked the heads of the armed services to form a council to study the best plan for defense. He would not have taken sides as to a concrete plan for unification till the military experts had threshed out the mistakes and achievements of World War II. Mr. Roosevelt had a thorough knowledge of what powerful blows had been and could be struck by air power but he also knew what the navy has meant to America. He was the best friend the navy ever had and that's one reason why the war against Japan was shortened and Japan was rendered virtually helpless even before the atomic bomb was dropped.

Demobilization Likely the Same

As for demobilization, Mr. Roosevelt probably would not have been able to stem the clamor for withdrawal of troops from overseas at a faster pace than was warranted. He would hve been up against much the same opposition in Congress to extension of the draft but in the end he would have worked out compromises. Mr. Roosevelt's experience would have been invaluable in the postwar period.

Those who fought the New Deal, on the other hand, have felt quite relieved in the last twelve months that Mr. Roosevelt's aggressive handling of domestic problems was not copied by Mr. Truman. The conservatives were for a while inclined to support the present chief executive but lately they have veered to their own kind of conservatives in the Republican ranks. So politics is just the same as it would have been, international affairs are not much different, and only in the domestic picture might there have been considerable change in the tempo of reconversion to civilian production.

The Joy Of Unloading

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I always like to stand and watch the unloading of a wagon of produce from the country, or the unloading of a ship from some distant port. I think of all the toil and planning that went into that load of fruitage. And then I think of the endless health and happineess that soon is sure to result from that unloading.

It is inspiring to visit the mounments that generous men and women have left behind, as their contribution to future generations, as a result of their toil and vesion. Fine libraries, schools, hospitals, and churches. Go through the great museums and at galleries, and there you will see contributions, that have been given for the pure joy of giving, joy unloaded for the benefit of those with that priceless inheritanee of appreciation.

How tragic is the dissipation of wealth, gained by another On the other hand, how inspiring to see it unloaded for the benefit of the many. Andrew Carnegie did it in the form of libraries that he scattered far and wide. And the Rockefellers have been doing it for several generations, in a variety of ways.

People who give away their earned wealth may die poor, but they die enriched! I think of that beautiful Clements Library of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, created through the joy, love, and generosity of William L. Clements, with probably the finest collection of Americana items in existence, a monument for the ages. I understand, however, that he died poor in possessions, but certainly not in spirit.

There is no life comparable with the life of Christ. Yet, at no time, could he point to a spot that he could call home. Daily he unloaded his spirit, comforting and restoring the sick, blessing the children along his way, and rebuilding the faith of all who came within his influence. And now, for nearly two thousand years, that influence has been unloaded upon a world too busy and unthinking to make the truths he spread universal in their application. His Golden Rule would transform all nations and all peoples into one happy family!

The things we give away, somehow keep coming back to us, in a more golden garb than when they so happily went from us.

Doctor Discusses Respiratory Ills From Head Colds

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Mothers, be on your guard against long-continued head colds in your children. Persistent nasal drainage may be the aftermath of a cold as well as the beginning of a stubborn and health-wrecking sinus infection.

According to Dr. J. Ivor Griffiths, of England, sinus infection in children may be a contributing cause for asthma, bronchitis and chronic running ear.

Air Spaces

The sinuses are air spaces in the face connected with the nose and lined with mucous membrane. Infections in these areas are hard to clear up because they are inaccessible and hard to get at. Nevertheless, in the majority of cases an early sinus infection will respond to simple treatment. The longer the condition lasts, the less likely it is that complete recovery will take place without some kind of operation.

Hence, it is doubly important that when sinus infection first starts, it be promptly treated, first, because this is the time when treatment is most effective; second, because chronic or prolonged infection in the sinuses may be the cause of other disease.

In treating sinus infection, the most important step is to promote drainage, that is, to make sure that the secretions in the sinuses can drain out through the nose. If this is done, the lining membrane is given a chance to get over the inflammation.

Polyp Growth

Sometimes little growths form in the sinuses, called polyps. If this happens, it is often necessary that the polyps be removed, so that drainage of the sinuses will occur. In order to encourage the drainage, the lining membrane is shrunk by using such drugs as ephedrine and epinephrine. Some physicians also like to use suction, employing a water pump to pump out the secretions. Of course, this will be done gently so that the tissues are not injured.

It is also important to build up the general health with proper food, fresh air and sunshine. The use of heat by means of short-wave treatment, which is an electrical form of treatment producing heat deep in the tissues, may also be helpful in overcoming inflammation and speeding up the drainage. In more severe cases, it may be necessary to puncture certain of the sinuses and wash them out with antiseptic solutions.

It is suggested that if the kind of germs which are producing the infection are the kind that are destroyed by penicillin the sinuses may be filled with a penicillin solution.

Remember that the earlier the treatment is carried out the better will be the results.

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Mothers, be on your guard against long-continued head colds in your children. Persistent nasal drainage may be the aftermath of a cold as well as the beginning of a stubborn and health-wrecking sinus infection.

According to Dr. J. Ivor Griffiths, of England, sinus infection in children may be a contributing cause for asthma, bronchitis and chronic running ear.

Air Spaces

The sinuses are air spaces in the face connected with the nose and lined with mucous membrane. Infections in these areas are hard to clear up because they are inaccessible and hard to get at. Nevertheless, in the majority of cases an early sinus infection will respond to simple treatment. The longer the condition lasts, the less likely it is that complete recovery will take place without some kind of operation.

Hence, it is doubly important that when sinus infection first starts, it be promptly treated, first, because this is the time when treatment is most effective; second, because chronic or prolonged infection in the sinuses may be the cause of other disease.

In treating sinus infection, the most important step is to promote drainage, that is, to make sure that the secretions in the sinuses can drain out through the nose. If this is done, the lining membrane is given a chance to get over the inflammation.

Polyp Growth

Sometimes little growths form in the sinuses, called polyps. If this happens, it is often necessary that the polyps be removed, so that drainage of the sinuses will occur. In order to encourage the drainage, the lining membrane is shrunk by using such drugs as ephedrine and epinephrine. Some physicians also like to use suction, employing a water pump to pump out the secretions. Of course, this will be done gently so that the tissues are not injured.

It is also important to build up the general health with proper food, fresh air and sunshine. The use of heat by means of short-wave treatment, which is an electrical form of treatment producing heat deep in the tissues, may also be helpful in overcoming inflammation and speeding up the drainage. In more severe cases, it may be necessary to puncture certain of the sinuses and wash them out with antiseptic solutions.

It is suggested that if the kind of germs which are producing the infection are the kind that are destroyed by penicillin the sinuses may be filled with a penicillin solution.

Remember that the earlier the treatment is carried out the better will be the results.

Maurice Matteson Presents Program For National Clubs

A series of musical programs allied to the general theme, "Music in the Reconstruction Era," highlighted the meeting of the Board of Directors and State and District Presidents' Council of the National Federation of Music Clubs, held in Atlanta, Ga., earlier this week.

Maurice Matteson, head of the music department at Frostburg State Teachers college, and the federation's chairman of American Folk Music Research, presented a program of folk music, accompanying himself on the dulcimer, a three stringed instrument used on secular programs, and on the salmonikon, used in early church music. The former he found in the Smoky Mountains and the latter stems from the Bishop Hill colony, an early Swedish settlement in Illinois.

Prof. Matteson explained that his new book, "American Folk Songs for Young Singers," is designed to furnish new and unusual material for school music programs; outlines the aims of the federations folk music program; endeavors to insure a more widespread use of folk music in the public schools; the recording of new folk tunes and the presentation of folk music programs by federated clubs throughout the country.

Also participating on his program were the Emory Glee Club, under the direction of Dr. Malcolm Dewey and Bascom Lamar Lunsford, Leister, N. C.

Six Mid-Eastern States Have 184 Community Chests

Six mid-eastern states now have 184 community chests and seventy-one councils of social agencies, the 1946 directory published by Community Chests and Councils, Incorporated, New York, shows, according to Henry C. Swearingen, president of the Cumberland Community Chest.

These figures are an increase of four in the number of chests and a decrease of two in the number of councils as compared with the 1945 directory.

In all, there are 849 chests and 327 councils listed in the new directory compared with 810 chests and 324 councils in the 1945 edition. Part of the increase is due, Swearingen pointed out, to the addition of chests and councils not previously known to the national association. Another part is due to the addition of groups organized during the last year.

Chests and councils now in operation in forty-seven states, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, Canada, the Virgin Islands, British West Indies and South Africa.

There are one chest and one council in the District of Columbia; six chests and one council in Maryland; thirty-seven chests and thirteen councils in New Jersey; fifty-nine chests and twenty-four councils in New York; sixty-nine chests and twenty-four councils in Pennsylvania, and twelve chests and eight councils in West Virginia. None is listed in Delaware.

U. S. Armed Forces Institute Doesn't Award Diplomas

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I will be 18 years old very soon and will be drafted before I am eligible for my high school diploma. I understand that I can finish my high school education in the army. Does the government give diplomas or only the education? M.E.

The United States Armed Forces Institute, through which you will get your education, is not authorized to grant or recommend credit. Only a high school or state department of education can grant high school credit or award a high school diploma. USAFI can often help students to obtain credit by teaching them, testing them, and reporting their test results to high schools. When you are induced into the service, take up the question of your education with the Information-Education Officer.

Length of Service

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Will you please tell me how long a boy has to stay in the army if he is drafted? And how long if he enlists? E.M.S.

If drafted a soldier is inducted for the duration and six months beyond that time. (The end of the war has not yet been declared by Congress.) Enlistments may be for eighteen months, two years, or three years.

Subsistence Allowances

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Is the mother of a veteran eligible for dependents' allowance under the G. I. Bill of Rights? My son is now attending college, but I do not receive an allowance. A. C.

The Servicemen's Readjustment act of 1944 provides subsistence allowances for veterans attending school under its provisions. If the veteran is without dependents, this allowance is $65 a month. If he has a dependent or dependents, the allowance is increased to $90 a month. There is no provision for this payment to be made to the dependent. It is made to the veteran. In the case of a mother, the fact of dependency must be established.

Pension Payable to Widow

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What amount of pension is paid to the widow of a veteran of World War II if his death is due to a disability sustained while in service? What is paid for the children? G. S. F.

Under certain pension laws, the widow of a deceased veteran of World War II whose death resulted from injuries or disease received in line of duty while the United States was engaged in war may be entitled to a pension of $50 a month. A widow with one child may receive $65 with $13 for each additional child. The total pension payable cannot exceed $100 monthly.

Two "Parents" May Receive Allowance

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have re-enlisted in the army. I expect to marry shortly and my wife's parents will be dependent on me. May I apply for an allowance for my wife and her parents also, after we are married? G. I. JOE.

Yes, provided you have no family allowance in effect for your own parents or grandparents. The parents of a soldier's wife are considered his "parents" under the law, but a soldier may have no more than two "parents" receiving the family allowance. When you file your application for the allowances, you should attach a certified copy of your marriage certidcate, also a dependency certificate, signed by your wife's parents, giving an itemized statement of their income and expenses.

U. S. Armed Forces Institute Doesn't Award Diplomas

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I will be 18 years old very soon and will be drafted before I am eligible for my high school diploma. I understand that I can finish my high school education in the army. Does the government give diplomas or only the education? M.E.

The United States Armed Forces Institute, through which you will get your education, is not authorized to grant or recommend credit. Only a high school or state department of education can grant high school credit or award a high school diploma. USAFI can often help students to obtain credit by teaching them, testing them, and reporting their test results to high schools. When you are induced into the service, take up the question of your education with the Information-Education Officer.

Length of Service

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Will you please tell me how long a boy has to stay in the army if he is drafted? And how long if he enlists? E.M.S.

If drafted a soldier is inducted for the duration and six months beyond that time. (The end of the war has not yet been declared by Congress.) Enlistments may be for eighteen months, two years, or three years.

Subsistence Allowances

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Is the mother of a veteran eligible for dependents' allowance under the G. I. Bill of Rights? My son is now attending college, but I do not receive an allowance. A. C.

The Servicemen's Readjustment act of 1944 provides subsistence allowances for veterans attending school under its provisions. If the veteran is without dependents, this allowance is $65 a month. If he has a dependent or dependents, the allowance is increased to $90 a month. There is no provision for this payment to be made to the dependent. It is made to the veteran. In the case of a mother, the fact of dependency must be established.

Pension Payable to Widow

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What amount of pension is paid to the widow of a veteran of World War II if his death is due to a disability sustained while in service? What is paid for the children? G. S. F.

Under certain pension laws, the widow of a deceased veteran of World War II whose death resulted from injuries or disease received in line of duty while the United States was engaged in war may be entitled to a pension of $50 a month. A widow with one child may receive $65 with $13 for each additional child. The total pension payable cannot exceed $100 monthly.

Two "Parents" May Receive Allowance

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have re-enlisted in the army. I expect to marry shortly and my wife's parents will be dependent on me. May I apply for an allowance for my wife and her parents also, after we are married? G. I. JOE.

Yes, provided you have no family allowance in effect for your own parents or grandparents. The parents of a soldier's wife are considered his "parents" under the law, but a soldier may have no more than two "parents" receiving the family allowance. When you file your application for the allowances, you should attach a certified copy of your marriage certidcate, also a dependency certificate, signed by your wife's parents, giving an itemized statement of their income and expenses.

Postwar Problems

If you're still in the armed services and you have a problem regarding insurance, allowances, allotments, maternity or infant care for wives and children, or desire the answer to any other service question, write to Beatrice Fairfax care of this paper. If you wish a personal answer, please enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Grand Jury Finds Five Indictments Against Hickle

Harley McDonald Is Charged with Manslaughter in Smith Death

Five indictments found by the April grand jury against Anthony Hickle, Oldtown road, on larceny and receiving stolen goods charges, and one against Harley Glenn McDonald, Route 1, Ridgeley, charging him with manslaughter in the death of Russell E. Hickle is accused of larceny and receiving stolen goods valued at $310.22 from the Siehler Furniture Company on five different occasions.

Over 14,000 income tax returns for 1945 taxes, were filed here up to and including March 15, Richard J. Stakem, collector of internal revenue said yesterday.

Most of the returns were W-2 or withholding tax forms and Form 1040. The total returns filed, were slightly higher than for the previous year, and does not include those who mailed their returns and did not contact the local office.

mise candidate for governor—gave no credence to that report as his backers claimed sufficient organization support to nominate him.

O'Conor's campaign managers said central committees or the dominant party clements in eleven counties and several city legislative districts had come out for him and said their combined nominating convention votes assured O'Conor of victory.

One of the new O'Conor indorsements this week was from Prince George's county, stronghold of Rep. Lansdale G. Sasscer, who filed for renomination.

McKeldin Makes Bid

BALTIMORE, April 12 (AP)—Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, of Baltimore, filed for the Republican gubernatorial nomination today and indicated he still hoped a GOP primary fight for the governorship could be avoided.

McKeldin, making his bid to become the Republican standard bearer for the second time, was the third one in the field, Herman L. Mills, Hagerstown, having filed for the governorship January 14 and D. John Markey, Frederick on January 24.

The 45-year-old mayor, defeated by a surprisingly slim margin when he ran against Gov. O'Conor in 1942, said in his announcement:

"It is my purpose to file my certificate for nomination, subject to primary action, if any, as Republican candidate for governor at the coming general elections of local, state and federal officials."

The phrase, "subject to primary action, if any," was interpreted as an indication that the Republican organization, headed by State Chairman Galen L. Tait, had not given up hopes of persuading Mills and Markey to withdraw.

Efforts to make the gubernatorial nomination an open-and-shut thing for McKeldin were believed spurred by the fact that the Democrats are engaged in a down-the-line, three-cornered struggle for the governorship spot.

McKeldin said his decision to run —announced earlier than is his custom—was "due in large part to the view persuasively advanced by friends in city and counties that my candidacy for governor would be a natural consequence of the record which my supporters so generously aided me to achieve in my three previous campaigns x x x."

Poland will have an opportunity to talk then. On the provisional agenda ahead of the Spanish case is Russia's demand that the council drop the Iranian dispute from its agenda—and Iran's request that the council hold it pending until May 6 to see whether Russia keeps its promise to leave Iran by that date.

Informed quarters said it was not impossible that Iran would agree Monday to the Russian demand that the matter be dropped.

Dispatches from Moscow indicate that the Russians confidently expect that Premier Ahmed Qavam, of Iran, will instruct this representative, Hussein Ala, to reverse his position and agree to expunging the case from the agenda.

But, it was pointed out authoritatively, the matter now is a question between the council and Russia itself.

For that reason, it was further said in authoritative circles that the United States and Britain would vigorously oppose dropping the case.

President Truman

Roosevelt fought, and for which we, who are carrying on after him, now fight, and for which we shall continue to fight.

"In the foreign field, President Roosevelt's guiding thought was that this nation as a good neighbor must play an active, intelligent and constructive part in world affairs. He saw clearly that we cannot continue to live isolated from other nations. He knew that what happens on other continents must affect the welfare of our country."

World Pays Tribute To Roosevelt's Memory

[By The Associated Press]

The memory of Franklin D. Roosevelt was freshened by tributes in many lands yesterday (Friday) —the first anniversary of the war leader's passing.

President Truman led the American observance with a renewed pledge to "carry forward the underlying principles and policies, foreign and domestic," of his renowned predecessor.

In Washington and foreign capitals, words of praise and respect were spoken, while Mr. Truman journeyed to the graveside of Mr. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., to take part in exercises dedicating his home as a national shrine.

"Foremost Man on Earth"

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) said Mr. Roosevelt in his day was "the foremost man of all on the earth," in a speech concluding an hour of eulogy in the House. A similar session of tribute was held in the Senate with Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky), the chief speaker. A Republican, Rep. Ramey, of Ohio, told the House: "Franklin D. Roosevelt loved his enemies; therefore he has lost them."

Prime Minister Attlee, of Great Britain, in a telegram to President Truman, called Mr. Roosevelt "a great man whose wise and purposeful leadership contributed so much to the victory of the United Nations."

In Russia, the official Soviet organ Pravda published an editorial entitled "In Memory of the Great President," Mr. Roosevelt.

In Madrid, the Spanish Falange newspaper Arriba editorially praised Mr. Roosevelt's part in the latest World war and printed his picture on the first page.

Mexico, France Pay Tribute

A special congressional session was arranged in Mexico City for eulogistic speeches and to hear a message from President Truman read by Raymond H. Geist, United States charge d'affaires.

Chairman Vincent Auriol, of France's constituent assembly, said that "with peace building painfully," Mr. Roosevelt's loss today "seems even greater to us."

Two thousand Argentine troops took part in a tribute ceremony in Buenos Aires. President Edelmiro Farrell led a procession from government house.

A huge parade was held in Athens, Greece, and later a cenotaph to Mr. Roosevelt's memory was unveiled in the center of the Athens cathedral.

At Warm Springs, Ga., where Mr. Roosevelt died a year ago, infantile paralysis patients in whose behalf he gave many years of effort arranged a memorial ceremony in a chapel decorated with flowers they picked.

McFarland's sister, Mrs. John L. Emory, New Market, Tenn., visited him in the Knox county jail tonight and said she planned to fight his removal to Washington on grounds that he is mentally unbalanced.

"Earl has never acted right since he came back from the war," she told reporters.

James O'Neal Will

that, and the agency can do nothing for him.

Says Aid Was Refused

"Seems like the shoe is on the other foot now," O'Neal said yesterday. He explained that when he opened the stand in the post office on December 28, 1935, he sought help from the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, and it was refused.

O'Neal then obtained credit from local business houses, and with his own limited funds and the cooperation of several interested local individuals, he established the stand himself and built up the business.

O'Neal said yesterday that the wall case and show cases he uses in the business now were given to him in June 1944, by the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, when all stands were being made uniform. These cases, he suggested, might be considered as public property, since they were purchased with public money appropriated to the workshop.

When he opened his stand the Maryland Workshop for the Blind ignored his efforts, but now that his stand is a success and is making him a nice living, the Workshop wants to "muscle in," is the way O'Neal sees it.

Ratchford told O'Neal yesterday it is mandatory that he sign the agreement with the agency, and advised him to think it over, promising to return here next Wednesday. According to O'Neal, Ratchford said it is compulsory, under the Randolph-Shepherd act, passed by Congress in 1936, authorizing these stands, that he sign an agreement with the state agency for aid to the blind.

The Randolph-Shepherd act is a law which makes it possible to operate this type of business in federal buildings throughout the country. The bill was advocated and sponsored originally by Lions clubs throughout the country, as a means of helping blind people help themselves.

Lions Indorsed Aid

It was recalled here last night that in 1935, when the Lions club convention was held in Ocean City, Md., the local delegation which included, Albert W. Kight, R. Mason Hill, Lester B. Feaga, now of Hagerstown, and F. Allan Weatherholt, worked and voted for a resolution indorsing this "aid to the blind measure." The bill in its original form "had no strings attached to it." The measure was fairly simple, and merely made it possible that a blind man in each community could operate a news stand in a post office, subject to minor regulations of the local postmaster as to location, display, cleanliness, etc.

After the measure was passed it was placed under the supervision of the United States Office of Education, now located in temporary building M, Washington, D. C. It is under this measure that state agencies are setting up control and supervision for these stands in federal buildings.

The measure also gave the impetus to the establishment of similar stands in other public buildings. At the Lions convention, it was suggested that if these stands could be set up in federal buildings, the various states, counties and municipalities would follow. This actually happened as envisioned at the time. However, it was not the intent of the original advocates of the measure, to have the bill used to work any hardship, or force anyone to return a part of his receipts to any agency, group, individual or governing body, a spokesman said last night.

O'Neal says he will fight the plan to force him to sign or vacate, and has retained legal counsel.

chairman of the committee, sent telegrams to all Democratic representatives saying the letter was addressed to their districts "through error." He also telegraphed county chairmen explaining the mistake, asking them to disregard the letter and to "please write your congressman advising him of receipt of this telegram."

Today's row came only a week after a similar controversy between Hannegan and southern party members in the House. At that time approximately fifty of them met and adopted a resolution demanding an apology from Hannegan for an article in a national headquarters publication which read:

"And let your representative know that every vote for the Case (labor disputes) bill was a vote against the American people." Most southerners voted for the measure.

Construction Delayed

Construction of the auditorium on Second street between the Oakland bakery and the Bolden funeral home has been delayed because of the ban by the federal government on new construction of public buildings.

The auditorium was planned by Bernard I. Gonder, who stated this week he already had about $7,000 worth of material already on hand. He added, however, that he would not attempt to build until the ban is lifted.

Gonder asked the town council for a permit several weeks ago to erect an all-steel and concrete auditorium 55 by 150 feet, to "supply entertainment for people of Oakland and vicinity in the way of bowling, basketball, dancing, roller skating, and perhaps for conventions and banquets."

Fire Destroys Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Weimer and family, west of Oakland, on the Swallow Falls road, was entirely destroyed by fire of undetermined origin Tuesday afternoon. The family was unable to save any furniture or clothing.

The blaze was discovered when a small child who was in an upstairs room began to scream. Rushing upstairs, the family found the second story in flames. Weimer had recently returned from the hospital and it was his first day of work in the mines. Some of the children were in school, but Mrs. Weimer and the other children were at home.

Oakland firemen who were called prevented the flames from spreading to nearby outbuildings. Upon their return to Oakland they solicited food, clothing and cash for the homeless family, and assistance was also given by the Red Cross chapter.

Members of the family are residing temporarily with relatives.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

TOM: "It's mighty nice to receive a compliment like you've just given us, Judge. We do take our responsibilities very seriously and try to do the right thing with everybody. In spite of it, we get criticized now and then."

OLD JUDGE: "I know . . . you've got to take the bitter with the sweet in times like these. Speaking of criticism, and I mean really unfair criticism, reminds me of the spirit beverage business."

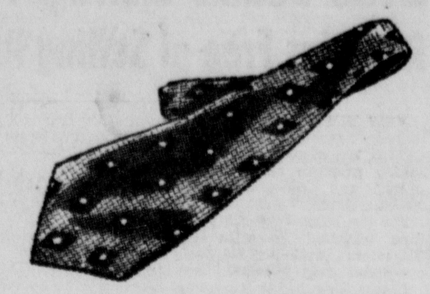

FRANK: "How is that, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Simply this . . . can you think of any other business in which the seller is responsible for what the buyer does with his merchandise? If a person eats too much cake and gets indigestion, the baker isn't blamed. Nor is the coffee merchant criticized if someone drinks too much coffee and can't sleep. But the seller of spirit beverages gets blamed plenty if one of his customers overindulges. Doesn't seem quite fair, does it, Tom?"

TOM: "Frankly, it doesn't, Judge. We've never looked at it that way before."

mise candidate for governor—gave no credence to that report as his backers claimed sufficient organization support to nominate him.

O'Conor's campaign managers said central committees or the dominant party clements in eleven counties and several city legislative districts had come out for him and said their combined nominating convention votes assured O'Conor of victory.

One of the new O'Conor indorsements this week was from Prince George's county, stronghold of Rep. Lansdale G. Sasscer, who filed for renomination.

McKeldin Makes Bid

BALTIMORE, April 12 (AP)—Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, of Baltimore, filed for the Republican gubernatorial nomination today and indicated he still hoped a GOP primary fight for the governorship could be avoided.

McKeldin, making his bid to become the Republican standard bearer for the second time, was the third one in the field, Herman L. Mills, Hagerstown, having filed for the governorship January 14 and D. John Markey, Frederick on January 24.

The 45-year-old mayor, defeated by a surprisingly slim margin when he ran against Gov. O'Conor in 1942, said in his announcement:

"It is my purpose to file my certificate for nomination, subject to primary action, if any, as Republican candidate for governor at the coming general elections of local, state and federal officials."

The phrase, "subject to primary action, if any," was interpreted as an indication that the Republican organization, headed by State Chairman Galen L. Tait, had not given up hopes of persuading Mills and Markey to withdraw.

Efforts to make the gubernatorial nomination an open-and-shut thing for McKeldin were believed spurred by the fact that the Democrats are engaged in a down-the-line, three-cornered struggle for the governorship spot.

McKeldin said his decision to run —announced earlier than is his custom—was "due in large part to the view persuasively advanced by friends in city and counties that my candidacy for governor would be a natural consequence of the record which my supporters so generously aided me to achieve in my three previous campaigns x x x."

Cabinet Invites

Poland will have an opportunity to talk then. On the provisional agenda ahead of the Spanish case is Russia's demand that the council drop the Iranian dispute from its agenda—and Iran's request that the council hold it pending until May 6 to see whether Russia keeps its promise to leave Iran by that date.

Informed quarters said it was not impossible that Iran would agree Monday to the Russian demand that the matter be dropped.

Dispatches from Moscow indicate that the Russians confidently expect that Premier Ahmed Qavam, of Iran, will instruct this representative, Hussein Ala, to reverse his position and agree to expunging the case from the agenda.

But, it was pointed out authoritatively, the matter now is a question between the council and Russia itself.

For that reason, it was further said in authoritative circles that the United States and Britain would vigorously oppose dropping the case.

"In the foreign field, President Roosevelt's guiding thought was that this nation as a good neighbor must play an active, intelligent and constructive part in world affairs. He saw clearly that we cannot continue to live isolated from other nations. He knew that what happens on other continents must affect the welfare of our country."

World Pays Tribute To Roosevelt's Memory

[By The Associated Press]

The memory of Franklin D. Roosevelt was freshened by tributes in many lands yesterday (Friday) —the first anniversary of the war leader's passing.

President Truman led the American observance with a renewed pledge to "carry forward the underlying principles and policies, foreign and domestic," of his renowned predecessor.

In Washington and foreign capitals, words of praise and respect were spoken, while Mr. Truman journeyed to the graveside of Mr. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., to take part in exercises dedicating his home as a national shrine.

"Foremost Man on Earth"

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) said Mr. Roosevelt in his day was "the foremost man of all on the earth," in a speech concluding an hour of eulogy in the House. A similar session of tribute was held in the Senate with Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky), the chief speaker. A Republican, Rep. Ramey, of Ohio, told the House: "Franklin D. Roosevelt loved his enemies; therefore he has lost them."

Prime Minister Attlee, of Great Britain, in a telegram to President Truman, called Mr. Roosevelt "a great man whose wise and purposeful leadership contributed so much to the victory of the United Nations."

In Russia, the official Soviet organ Pravda published an editorial entitled "In Memory of the Great President," Mr. Roosevelt.

Mexico, France Pay Tribute

A special congressional session was arranged in Mexico City for eulogistic speeches and to hear a message from President Truman read by Raymond H. Geist, United States charge d'affaires.

Chairman Vincent Auriol, of France's constituent assembly, said that "with peace building painfully," Mr. Roosevelt's loss today "seems even greater to us."

Two thousand Argentine troops took part in a tribute ceremony in Buenos Aires. President Edelmiro Farrell led a procession from government house.

A huge parade was held in Athens, Greece, and later a cenotaph to Mr. Roosevelt's memory was unveiled in the center of the Athens cathedral.

At Warm Springs, Ga., where Mr. Roosevelt died a year ago, infantile paralysis patients in whose behalf he gave many years of effort arranged a memorial ceremony in a chapel decorated with flowers they picked.

that, and the agency can do nothing for him.

Says Aid Was Refused

"Seems like the shoe is on the other foot now," O'Neal said yesterday. He explained that when he opened the stand in the post office on December 28, 1935, he sought help from the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, and it was refused.

O'Neal then obtained credit from local business houses, and with his own limited funds and the cooperation of several interested local individuals, he established the stand himself and built up the business.

O'Neal said yesterday that the wall case and show cases he uses in the business now were given to him in June 1944, by the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, when all stands were being made uniform. These cases, he suggested, might be considered as public property, since they were purchased with public money appropriated to the workshop.

When he opened his stand the Maryland Workshop for the Blind ignored his efforts, but now that his stand is a success and is making him a nice living, the Workshop wants to "muscle in," is the way O'Neal sees it.

Ratchford told O'Neal yesterday it is mandatory that he sign the agreement with the agency, and advised him to think it over, promising to return here next Wednesday. According to O'Neal, Ratchford said it is compulsory, under the Randolph-Shepherd act, passed by Congress in 1936, authorizing these stands, that he sign an agreement with the state agency for aid to the blind.

The Randolph-Shepherd act is a law which makes it possible to operate this type of business in federal buildings throughout the country. The bill was advocated and sponsored originally by Lions clubs throughout the country, as a means of helping blind people help themselves.

Lions Indorsed Aid

It was recalled here last night that in 1935, when the Lions club convention was held in Ocean City, Md., the local delegation which included, Albert W. Kight, R. Mason Hill, Lester B. Feaga, now of Hagerstown, and F. Allan Weatherholt, worked and voted for a resolution indorsing this "aid to the blind measure." The bill in its original form "had no strings attached to it." The measure was fairly simple, and merely made it possible that a blind man in each community could operate a news stand in a post office, subject to minor regulations of the local postmaster as to location, display, cleanliness, etc.

After the measure was passed it was placed under the supervision of the United States Office of Education, now located in temporary building M, Washington, D. C. It is under this measure that state agencies are setting up control and supervision for these stands in federal buildings.

The measure also gave the impetus to the establishment of similar stands in other public buildings. At the Lions convention, it was suggested that if these stands could be set up in federal buildings, the various states, counties and municipalities would follow. This actually happened as envisioned at the time. However, it was not the intent of the original advocates of the measure, to have the bill used to work any hardship, or force anyone to return a part of his receipts to any agency, group, individual or governing body, a spokesman said last night.

O'Neal says he will fight the plan to force him to sign or vacate, and has retained legal counsel.

House Democrats

chairman of the committee, sent telegrams to all Democratic representatives saying the letter was addressed to their districts "through error." He also telegraphed county chairmen explaining the mistake, asking them to disregard the letter and to "please write your congressman advising him of receipt of this telegram."

Today's row came only a week after a similar controversy between Hannegan and southern party members in the House. At that time approximately fifty of them met and adopted a resolution demanding an apology from Hannegan for an article in a national headquarters publication which read:

"And let your representative know that every vote for the Case (labor disputes) bill was a vote against the American people." Most southerners voted for the measure.

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

SATURDAY, APRIL 13

Ye Did It Unto Me: "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these . . . ye did it unto me—" Matthew 25:40. Read Matthew 25-40-42.

There is then a golden chain of love and service reaching from the simplest kindness to the throne of God.

Dr. Atkins

Beside all that the theologians have made of these words of Jesus, there is this, central and shining, too great for words, too simple to need many words; the oneness of Jesus with all suffering and need. He does not identify himself in his god-hood with strength and pride and power, but with tears and heartache and hunger and all the broken and the beaten, and the lovelonging, the lonely and little children. "Wherever these are," He says, "there am I. When you serve them, you will be serving me. There are ties unbroken and unbreakable between me and the least of these, my brethren; as you do to them, you do to me." And with this last parable of His, we enter Holy week.

Prayer: Oh Son of Man, who walked each day a humble road, serene and strong, go with me now upon life's way, "my comrade all the journey long . . . Try . . . company shall make me glad. Thy fellowship shall keep me strong." Amen.

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

SATURDAY, APRIL 13

Ye Did It Unto Me: "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these . . . ye did it unto me—" Matthew 25:40. Read Matthew 25-40-42.

Dr. Atkins

There is then a golden chain of love and service reaching from the simplest kindness to the throne of God.

Beside all that the theologians have made of these words of Jesus, there is this, central and shining, too great for words, too simple to need many words; the oneness of Jesus with all suffering and need. He does not identify himself in his god-hood with strength and pride and power, but with tears and heartache and hunger and all the broken and the beaten, and the lovelonging, the lonely and little children. "Wherever these are," He says, "there am I. When you serve them, you will be serving me. There are ties unbroken and unbreakable between me and the least of these, my brethren; as you do to them, you do to me." And with this last parable of His, we enter Holy week.

Prayer: Oh Son of Man, who walked each day a humble road, serene and strong, go with me now upon life's way, "my comrade all the journey long . . . Try . . . company shall make me glad. Thy fellowship shall keep me strong." Amen.

JESUS CHRIST

The greatest Personality in world history

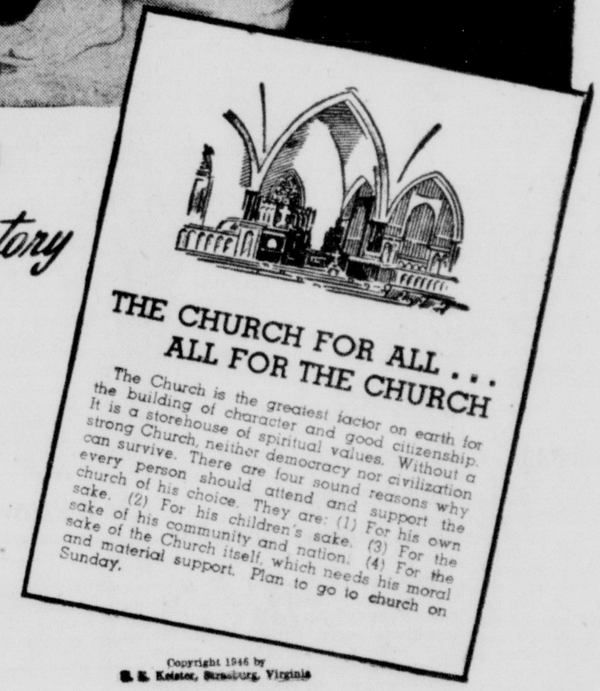

Almost two thousand years ago, Jesus Christ was born in Judea of humble parents. Early in life He became a great leader. So profound were His teachings and so pure His life that He soon drew unto Himself a vast following, and men called Him Master. For His disciples there was no promise of worldly reward; yet men forsook all and followed Him.

His enemies were cruel men, and powerful. They crucified Him! But Death could not crush His power. Christ arose! And the truth He had taught became the faith of thousands—then of millions in every corner of the earth.

Christ's Church has lived through wars and persecutions, it has suffered every known human torture and violence, and yet it has always survived and grown stronger. Its strength is the timeless, eternal strength of its Founder.

To understand today the great truths underlying our civilization, we and our children should know the world's greatest personality—Jesus Christ. We should gain the world's greatest spiritual treasure—Christianity.

The best place to gain these essentials of wholesome living is in the Church. Enroll your children in Sunday School. You will be welcome in the church of your shoice each Sunday.

Owen Will Play In Mexican Loop; Signs Contract

Star Brooklyn Dodger Catcher Changes His Mind Again

MEXICO CITY, April 12 (AP) — Mickey Owen, star Brooklyn Dodger catcher, has changed his mind again and has decided to play in the Mexican Baseball League after all.

Accompanied by his wife and son, he arrived at the airport here late this afternoon and told reporters he had signed a five-year contract to play in the Mexican circuit.

"I'm glad to be here," Owen declared. "And I'm going to stay in Mexico."

Jorge Pasquel, president of the Mexican League, announced two weeks ago that Owen had agreed to terms as playing-manager for the Torreon club. Last Tuesday, however, Owen said in San Antonio, Tex., that he had changed his mind and turned down Pasquel's offer, deciding to rejoin the Dodgers.

Owen went at once to Pasquel's office for a conference. On the plane with the Owens was Dee Sanders, a pitcher who twirled one inning for the St. Louis Browns of the American League last year.

(In New York, Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, expressed surprise, but declared "if that's the way he wants it,it's all right with me."

("I have stated my position previously," Rickey said. "Owen was through with the Dodgers, in any event, and even had he returned I would have traded him to some other club. x x x

("I don't care to comment on his latest leap-frog action, but it is my opinion the boy hasn't stopped skipping yet. I believe he will change his mind again, but perhaps not so soon. His pride won't let him.")

After Owen announced at San Antonio he "felt he was making a mistake in going to Mexico" Pasquel declared he would file suit for $100,000 damages. Pasquel said the suit would be filed in St. Louis because that was "where he (Owen) signed his contract with us and where he got $20,000 cash in advance." It was reported previously that Owen, recently discharged from the navy, had received a bonus of $12,500 for signing.

First announcement that Owen was on his way here came from the St. Louis Star-Times which said in a copyright story that he had crossed the order at Laredo, Tex., and boarded a plane.

Matthews and Johnson Tie for Golf Lead

RICKMANSWORTH, England, April 12 (AP)—Deadlocked with thirty-six-hole totals of 145, unknown Algy Matthews and George Johnson led the way into the play-off stag of the 1,500 pound 6,000 Silver King golf tournament today as several widely known players faded among the also-rans.

Alfred Padgham, Arthur Havers and Alfred Perry, all former British open champions, failed even to finish among the forty-nine who qualified for tomorrow's two final rounds.

Henry Cotton, another former open titleholder, finished with an aggregate of 153, just two strokes under the 155 qualifying limit.

OFFICERS AND CHAMPS OF CHURCH BOWLING LEAGUE

Point-to-Point Racing Returns To State Today

MONKTON, Md., April 12 (AP)—Fourteen gentleman jockeys will risk their necks tomorrow for a silver bowl as the My Lady's Manor steeplechase brings back point-to-point racing to Maryland after a wartime blackout.

Not a tote board will taint the estate of J. Meyers Pearce and Meyers-Saportas where the great steeplechaser, Winton, will try for the first leg of its 1942 performance, capture of the "Manor," Grand National and Maryland Hunt races on successive Saturdays.

Nothing so plebeian as ducats will be necessary to watch the fourteen horses assay the three miles of rolling country, sturdy fences and creeks in Maryland's Dulaney valley. Engraved invitations aren't necessary either. The spectators just wander all over the place.

The famous steeplechase was last run in 1942 when it was won by Winton, the 12-year-old gelding which is owned and will be ridden by Stuart S. Janney, Jr. Janney is an ex-marine captain, wounded on Saipan.

Tomorrow's renewal at 4 p. m. will be the thirty-fifth running of the event with William Ewing's Iron Mold and Arthur I. Meigg's Miltiades expected to give Winton the toughest competition. Good weather is promised with "fair and warmer" the forecast.

The National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, under whose auspices the race is run, has approved all fourteen entries.

Bookies have been known to impose crass commercialism on the sport but they are distinctly unwelcome at the upper-crust affair. A social register would be handier at the "Manor" than a scratch sheet.

Rough tweeds and shooting-sticks will be the uniform of the day.

But even as the odds-conscious spectators at Jamaica or Bowie, the fans will watch their choices through high-powered binoculars.

Why, they sometimes even sell hot dogs.

Athletics Reach Home

PHILADELPHIA, April 12. (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics checked in today with a record of nineteen victories and thirteen losses in grapefruit league exhibition clashes.

There were thirty-four Mackmen arriving—fifteen pitchers, eight outfielders, six catchers and five outfielders. Connie Mack said he may retain the thirty-four players until June 15, when the squad must be cut to thirty.

The Phillies also were slated to return tonight, sporting a preseason record of sixteen triumphs against fourteen defeats.

Centerville Will Play Fulton Myers Tossers

The Centerville Reds, of the Bi-State Baseball League, will seek their third straight "grapefruit league" victory at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon when they tangle with Fulton Myers Post, American Legion tossers, of Cumberland, at Centerville, Pa. The Legion outfit is in the Interstate League. Recently, the Reds turned back the local Eagles, of the Interstate, 17-3 and 2-0 in practice tussles.

Navy Baseball Team To Play Tarheels

ANNAPOLIS Md., April 12. (AP)—Coach Max Bishop's thrice-successful Middie baseballers will seek another victory tomorrow against the University of North Carolina, while the Navy lacrosse and tennis teams open their seasons.

Mexican Loop Prexy Calls for Conference With "Happy" Chandler

MEXICO CITY, April 12—(AP)—The Mexican Baseball League has been "insulted very much," says its president, Jorge Pasquel, and the only remedy is for United States Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler to come to Mexico for a meeting.

The south-of-the-border baseball potentate, replying to a statement made by Chandler in Cincinnati today that he did not recognize Mr. Pasquel "because we have never heard from him officially," said:

"Chandler says he has never officially heard about us. Well, I have never heard officially of him either.

"I have merely heard of him through the newspapers, and have heard that he is just a puppet in the hands of the club owners.

"We have been insulted very much, and the only way to remedy matters is for Chandler to come to Mexico for a meeting."

Pilot Says Phils Are Going Places

RICHMOND, Va., April 12 (AP) — Ben Chapman, skipper of the Philadelphia Phillies, said today his club was going "to surprise a lot of people—maybe ourselves, too."

Here for the Philadelphia-Washington exhibition game which was cancelled because of rain, Chapman was asked in an interview if the Phillies would "vacate their usual habitat, eighth place." He answered:

"You're right we will. We don't speak about eighth place around here."

Then he was asked how he figured his club was going to leave the cellar.

"How do you figure we're not?" he responded. "I've got seven left handed pitchers and will keep everyone of them. The power in the national League is predominantly left-handed and I'm going to let them look at a lot of left-handed pitching."

Chapman said further the club had spent $150,000 on players he had recommended and about $300,000 on building up a farm system.

"We're going places," he declared.

LaSalle Defeats Berkeley Springs By Score of 10-4

Creegan Pitches Six-hit Ball and Fans Ten in Season Opener

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va., April 12—The LaSalle high school baseball team of Cumberland, Md., opened its 1946 schedule here today with a 10-4 victory over the Berkeley Springs high school nine behind the six-hit pitching of Pat Creegan.

Creegan, a little nervous as the contest got underway, was nicked for two runs on a triple by Kesecker and a home run by Spriggs in the first inning, but settled down as the game progressed to fan seven Berkeley Springs batters in the last four innings. He had ten strikeouts for the game.

LaSalle broke into the scoring column in the second inning, getting one run on a double by Sheffler and an error.

The Blue and Gold nine counted three runs in the third inning after Deffenbaugh was hit by a pitched ball, Reissig doubled, Creegan singled and Collins doubled.

LaSalle sewed up the contest in the fifth stanza when five runs crossed the plate on Steiner's one baser, two errors, a walk, a single by Creegan and a single by Collins.

This afternoon LaSalle will try to make it two in a row when the baseballers take on Kitzmiller high school at Kitzmiller at 3 o'clock. Jim Dulaney is slated to start on the mound for the Blue and Gold, but other than that, the same lineup that downed Berkeley Springs today will take the field. The box:

COACH SAYS NAVY CREW LACKS EXPERIENCE

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 12 (AP)—Columbia university's veteran crew team will be the outfit for the Middies to beat this season, for Navy's aggregation "looks good" but is lacking in experience, Comdr. Charles S. "Buck" Walsh said today.

Only three returning veterans were listed for the varsity boat when Coach Walsh began his workouts, but the present tentative varsity lineup includes none of them.

Three listed a month ago on Junior varsity have advanced to take over the first boat vacancies. They are Robert Bergman, bow; Perry Nelson, No. 4, and Donald Apple, No. 5.

As regards Nelson—star forward on navy's basketball team—Walsh said that when he came out, "He caused a shakeup in boating. He's a great athlete and a great morale builder."

The returning veterans, Eric Hooper, captain, Isham Linder and William Nivison, Jr., are in the jayvee boat for the present.

The East's—and Navy's—major crew event, in absence of the Poughkeepsie Regatta, will be a May 11 affair on the Severn, with nine boats competing in varsity and junior varsity races.

ONE FOR THE YANKEES

Charlie Keller slides safely home in the second inning to score one of the Yankees' three runs in the exhibition game with the Dodgers at Baltimore, Md. Ferrell Anderson is the catcher. Keller walked, went to second on Joe DiMaggio's hit and came in on Oscar Grimes' single to left field. The Dodgers won 11 to 3 in the eighth inning when several thousand enthusiastic fans left the stands to surround the Yankee bench. Play was not resumed. (AP Wirephoto).

Eligibility of Two Players Is Studied

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., April 12 (AP) — Eligibility of Bob Hoernschmeyer and George Sundheim, Indiana backfield stars now back from navy service, has been questioned by the Indiana faculty and is being studied by the Big Ten eligibility committee, it was disclosed today.

Hoernschmeyer, a halfback who in 1943-44 led the Big Ten in passing, and Sundheim, a 1944 fullback, returned to the Bloomington campus in March from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis where both were in the Navy backfield last fall.

Faculty members discovered certain scholastic deficiencies which raised a question of interpretation of Big Ten rules on whether a year of academic work or a year of Indiana residence would be required before these athletes could compete again for Indiana in football next fall and, in Hoernschmeyer's case, in baseball this spring.

The entire question was turned over to the Big Ten eligibility committee headed by Prof. Ralph Aigler of Michigan. The committee has not yet ruled on the case.

Bowie's Race Meeting Will Close Today

BOWIE, Md., April 12. (AP)—The $3,400 Chesapeake purse was won today by Mrs. D. B. Miller's Incoming, who came down the stretch to best E. D. Talbert's One Only by a neck in the mile and a sixteenth feature race.

Mrs. E. J. Sears's Tagel ran third.

The winner, ridden by Nick Combest, paid $9.40 for $2.

A crowd estimated at 13,000 wagered $801,502 on the next to last day of Bowie's current season. The Southern Maryland Agricultural Association expects at least 20,000 to be on hand for the final program tomorrow.

In today's daily double, the No. 4 and No. 1 combination which clicked on opening day, proved the right selection again, and holders of such tickets collected $141 for $2 on Jons and Aiken.

Improvement of Stitcher Field To Start Monday

Commissioner William V. Keegan was informally authorized by the mayor and city council yesterday to hire William P. Roeder to perform necessary excavation work at the North End playground, Stitcher baseball field, to improve the lot.

Keegan said that Roeder will start work Monday, and that the cost of the job will be about $2,400. Work is expected to be completed in about a week.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said at least ten fields are needed in the city, and Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, suggested that some thought be given to winter sports at Constitution park.

Under the North End Improvement plan, the shortest distance from home plate to the outfield limit will be 252 feet.

1945-46 Tarheel Mentor Will Report at Annapolis June 15

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 12. (AP)—Navy announced today the signing of Ben Carnevale, whose University of North Carolina basketball team gained runnerup honors in the National Collegiate court picture during the past season, as head coach of the Middie cagers.

Capt. C. O. Humphreys, director of athletics, announced that Carnevale would report at Annapolis June 15 to take over the post of John Wilson, who resigned recently after more than twenty years as Navy court mentor.

Carnevale, who attended Somerville, N. J., high school, was a star cager at New York university. He captained the Violets and was high scorer in the 1937-38 season, his last at N. Y. U. That year he won the award for being the outstanding athlete with the best scholastic record.

After playing professional basketball with the Jersey Reds, Ben entered the service in 1942. Assigned to the armed guard, he coached the Canal Zone champions in 1943.

He returned in 1944 to coach North Carolina, and won twenty-two games and lost only six to capture the Southern Conference title.

This season his Tarheels won the Eastern NCAA title by defeating N. Y. U. and Ohio State at Madison Square Garden, after winning twenty-nine and losing only five games over the regular schedule. In the contest for the national title, Oklahoma A. and M. defeated North Carolina, 43-40.

Thus, in two seasons, Carnevale's quintets have registered fifty-one victories and dropped only eleven games.

Owen Will Play In Mexican Loop; Signs Contract

Star Brooklyn Dodger Catcher Changes His Mind Again

MEXICO CITY, April 12 (AP) — Mickey Owen, star Brooklyn Dodger catcher, has changed his mind again and has decided to play in the Mexican Baseball League after all.

Accompanied by his wife and son, he arrived at the airport here late this afternoon and told reporters he had signed a five-year contract to play in the Mexican circuit.

"I'm glad to be here," Owen declared. "And I'm going to stay in Mexico."

Jorge Pasquel, president of the Mexican League, announced two weeks ago that Owen had agreed to terms as playing-manager for the Torreon club. Last Tuesday, however, Owen said in San Antonio, Tex., that he had changed his mind and turned down Pasquel's offer, deciding to rejoin the Dodgers.

("I don't care to comment on his latest leap-frog action, but it is my opinion the boy hasn't stopped skipping yet. I believe he will change his mind again, but perhaps not so soon. His pride won't let him.")

After Owen announced at San Antonio he "felt he was making a mistake in going to Mexico" Pasquel declared he would file suit for $100,000 damages. Pasquel said the suit would be filed in St. Louis because that was "where he (Owen) signed his contract with us and where he got $20,000 cash in advance." It was reported previously that Owen, recently discharged from the navy, had received a bonus of $12,500 for signing.

First announcement that Owen was on his way here came from the St. Louis Star-Times which said in a copyright story that he had crossed the order at Laredo, Tex., and boarded a plane.

Matthews and Johnson Tie for Golf Lead

RICKMANSWORTH, England, April 12 (AP)—Deadlocked with thirty-six-hole totals of 145, unknown Algy Matthews and George Johnson led the way into the play-off stag of the 1,500 pound 6,000 Silver King golf tournament today as several widely known players faded among the also-rans.

Alfred Padgham, Arthur Havers and Alfred Perry, all former British open champions, failed even to finish among the forty-nine who qualified for tomorrow's two final rounds.

Henry Cotton, another former open titleholder, finished with an aggregate of 153, just two strokes under the 155 qualifying limit.

OFFICERS AND CHAMPS OF CHURCH BOWLING LEAGUE

Point-to-Point Racing Returns To State Today

MONKTON, Md., April 12 (AP)—Fourteen gentleman jockeys will risk their necks tomorrow for a silver bowl as the My Lady's Manor steeplechase brings back point-to-point racing to Maryland after a wartime blackout.

Not a tote board will taint the estate of J. Meyers Pearce and Meyers-Saportas where the great steeplechaser, Winton, will try for the first leg of its 1942 performance, capture of the "Manor," Grand National and Maryland Hunt races on successive Saturdays.

Nothing so plebeian as ducats will be necessary to watch the fourteen horses assay the three miles of rolling country, sturdy fences and creeks in Maryland's Dulaney valley. Engraved invitations aren't necessary either. The spectators just wander all over the place.

The famous steeplechase was last run in 1942 when it was won by Winton, the 12-year-old gelding which is owned and will be ridden by Stuart S. Janney, Jr. Janney is an ex-marine captain, wounded on Saipan.

Tomorrow's renewal at 4 p. m. will be the thirty-fifth running of the event with William Ewing's Iron Mold and Arthur I. Meigg's Milladies expected to give Winton the toughest competition. Good weather is promised with "fair and warmer" the forecast.

The National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, under whose auspices the race is run, has approved all fourteen entries.

Bookies have been known to impose crass commercialism on the sport but they are distinctly unwelcome at the upper-crust affair. A social register would be handier at the "Manor" than a scratch sheet.

Rough tweeds and shooting-sticks will be the uniform of the day.

But even as the odds-conscious spectators at Jamaica or Bowie, the fans will watch their choices through high-powered binoculars.

Athletics Reach Home

PHILADELPHIA, April 12. (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics checked in today with a record of nineteen victories and thirteen losses in grapefruit league exhibition clashes.

There were thirty-four Mackmen arriving—fifteen pitchers, eight outfielders, six catchers and five outfielders. Connie Mack said he may retain the thirty-four players until June 15, when the squad must be cut to thirty.

The Phillies also were slated to return tonight, sporting a preseason record of sixteen triumphs against fourteen defeats.

Centerville Will Play Fulton Myers Tossers

The Centerville Reds, of the Bi-State Baseball League, will seek their third straight "grapefruit league" victory at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon when they tangle with Fulton Myers Post, American Legion tossers, of Cumberland, at Centerville, Pa. The Legion outfit is in the Interstate League. Recently, the Reds turned back the local Eagles, of the Interstate, 17-3 and 2-0 in practice tussles.

Navy Baseball Team To Play Tarheels

ANNAPOLIS Md., April 12. (AP)—Coach Max Bishop's thrice-successful Middie baseballers will seek another victory tomorrow against the University of North Carolina, while the Navy lacrosse and tennis teams open their seasons.

Mexican Loop Prexy Calls for Conference With "Hapoy" Chandler

MEXICO CITY, April 12—(AP)—The Mexican Baseball League has been "insulted very much," says its president, Jorge Pasquel, and the only remedy is for United States Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler to come to Mexico for a meeting.

The south-of-the-border baseball potentate, replying to a statement made by Chandler in Cincinnati today that he did not recognize Mr. Pasquel "because we have never heard from him officially," said:

"Chandler says he has never officially heard about us. Well, I have never heard officially of him either.

"I have merely heard of him through the newspapers, and have heard that he is just a puppet in the hands of the club owners.

"We have been insulted very much, and the only way to remedy matters is for Chandler to come to Mexico for a meeting."

Pilot Says Phils Are Going Places

RICHMOND, Va., April 12 (AP) — Ben Chapman, skipper of the Philadelphia Phillies, said today his club was going "to surprise a lot of people—maybe ourselves, too."

Here for the Philadelphia-Washington exhibition game which was cancelled because of rain, Chapman was asked in an interview if the Phillies would "vacate their usual habitat, eighth place." He answered:

"You're right we will. We don't speak about eighth place around here."

Then he was asked how he figured his club was going to leave the cellar.

"How do you figure we're not?" he responded. "I've got seven left handed pitchers and will keep everyone of them. The power in the national League is predominantly left-handed and I'm going to let them look at a lot of left-handed pitching."

Chapman said further the club had spent $150,000 on players he had recommended and about $300,000 on building up a farm system.

Creegan Pitches Six-hit Ball and Fans Ten in Season Opener

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va., April 12—The LaSalle high school baseball team of Cumberland, Md., opened its 1946 schedule here today with a 10-4 victory over the Berkeley Springs high school nine behind the six-hit pitching of Pat Creegan.

Creegan, a little nervous as the contest got underway, was nicked for two runs on a triple by Kesecker and a home run by Spriggs in the first inning, but settled down as the game progressed to fan seven Berkeley Springs batters in the last four innings. He had ten strikeouts for the game.

LaSalle broke into the scoring column in the second inning, getting one run on a double by Sheffler and an error.

The Blue and Gold nine counted three runs in the third inning after Deffenbaugh was hit by a pitched ball, Reissig doubled, Creegan singled and Collins doubled.

LaSalle sewed up the contest in the fifth stanza when five runs crossed the plate on Steiner's one baser, two errors, a walk, a single by Creegan and a single by Collins.

This afternoon LaSalle will try to make it two in a row when the baseballers take on Kitzmiller high school at Kitzmiller at 3 o'clock. Jim Dulaney is slated to start on the mound for the Blue and Gold, but other than that, the same lineup that downed Berkeley Springs today will take the field. The box:

COACH SAYS NAVY CREW LACKS EXPERIENCE

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 12 (AP)—Columbia university's veteran crew team will be the outfit for the Middies to beat this season, for Navy's aggregation "looks good" but is lacking in experience, Comdr. Charles S. "Buck" Walsh said today.

Only three returning veterans were listed for the varsity boat when Coach Walsh began his workouts, but the present tentative varsity lineup includes none of them.

Three listed a month ago on Junior varsity have advanced to take over the first boat vacancies. They are Robert Bergman, bow; Perry Nelson, No. 4, and Donald Apple, No. 5.

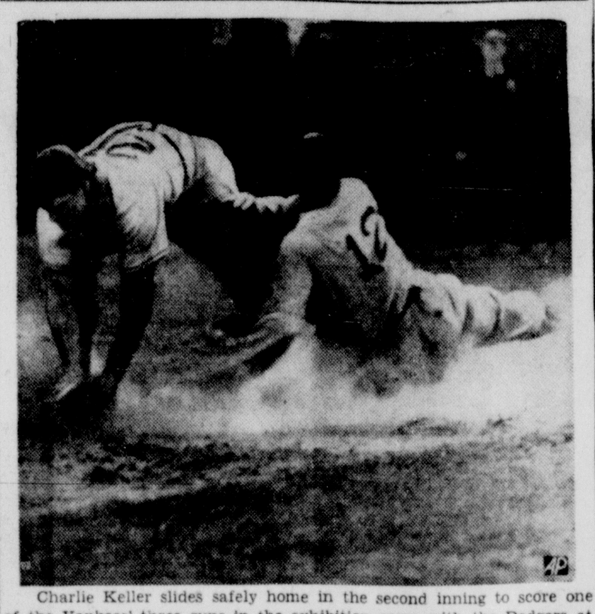

As regards Nelson—star forward on navy's basketball team—Walsh said that when he came out, "He caused a shakeup in boating. He's a great athlete and a great morale builder."

The returning veterans, Eric Hooper, captain, Isham Linder and William Nivison, Jr., are in the jayvee boat for the present.

The East's—and Navy's—major crew event, in absence of the Poughkeepsie Regatta, will be a May 11 affair on the Severn, with nine boats competing in varsity and junior varsity races.

ONE FOR THE YANKEES

Charlie Keller slides safely home in the second inning to score one of the Yankees' three runs in the exhibition game with the Dodgers at Baltimore, Md. Ferrell Anderson is the catcher. Keller walked, went to second on Joe DiMaggio's hit and came in on Oscar Grimes' single to left field. The Dodgers won 11 to 3 in the eighth inning when several thousand enthusiastic fans left the stands to surround the Yankee bench. Play was not resumed. (AP Wirephoto).

Eligibility of Two Players Is Studied

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., April 12 (AP) — Eligibility of Bob Hoernschmeyer and George Sundheim, Indiana backfield stars now back from navy service, has been questioned by the Indiana faculty and is being studied by the Big Ten eligibility committee, it was disclosed today.

Hoernschmeyer, a halfback who in 1943-44 led the Big Ten in passing, and Sundheim, a 1944 fullback, returned to the Bloomington campus in March from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis where both were in the Navy backfield last fall.

Faculty members discovered certain scholastic deficiencies which raised a question of interpretation of Big Ten rules on whether a year of academic work or a year of Indiana residence would be required before these athletes could compete again for Indiana in football next fall and, in Hoernschmeyer's case, in baseball this spring.

The entire question was turned over to the Big Ten eligibility committee headed by Prof. Ralph Aigler of Michigan. The committee has not yet ruled on the case.

Bowie's Race Meeting Will Close Today

BOWIE, Md., April 12. (AP)—The $3,400 Chesapeake purse was won today by Mrs. D. B. Miller's Incoming, who came down the stretch to best E. D. Talbert's One Only by a neck in the mile and a sixteenth feature race.

Mrs. E. J. Sears's Tagel ran third. The winner, ridden by Nick Combest, paid $9.40 for $2.

A crowd estimated at 13,000 wagered $801,502 on the next to last day of Bowie's current season. The Southern Maryland Agricultural Association expects at least 20,000 to be on hand for the final program tomorrow.

In today's daily double, the No. 4 and No. 1 combination which clicked on opening day, proved the right selection again, and holders of such tickets collected $141 for $2 on Jons and Aiken.

Improvement of Stitcher Field To Start Monday

Commissioner William V. Keegan was informally authorized by the mayor and city council yesterday to hire William P. Roeder to perform necessary excavation work at the North End playground, Stitcher baseball field, to improve the lot.

Keegan said that Roeder will start work Monday, and that the cost of the job will be about $2,400. Work is expected to be completed in about a week.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said at least ten fields are needed in the city, and Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, suggested that some thought be given to winter sports at Constitution park.

Under the North End Improvement plan, the shortest distance from home plate to the outfield limit will be 252 feet.

1945-46 Tarheel Mentor Will Report at Annapolis June 15

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 12. (AP)—Navy announced today the signing of Ben Carnevale, whose University of North Carolina basketball team gained runnerup honors in the National Collegiate court picture during the past season, as head coach of the Middie cagers.

Capt. C. O. Humphreys, director of athletics, announced that Carnevale would report at Annapolis June 15 to take over the post of John Wilson, who resigned recently after more than twenty years as Navy court mentor.

Carnevale, who attended Somerville, N. J., high school, was a star cager at New York university. He captained the Violets and was high scorer in the 1937-38 season, his last at N. Y. U. That year he won the award for being the outstanding athlete with the best scholastic record.

After playing professional basketball with the Jersey Reds, Ben entered the service in 1942. Assigned to the armed guard, he coached the Canal Zone champions in 1943.

He returned in 1944 to coach North Carolina, and won twenty-two games and lost only six to capture the Southern Conference title.

This season his Tarheels won the Eastern NCAA title by defeating N. Y. U. and Ohio State at Madison Square Garden, after winning twenty-nine and losing only five games over the regular schedule. In the contest for the national title, Oklahoma A. and M. defeated North Carolina, 43-40.

Thus, in two seasons, Carnevale's quintets have registered fifty-one victories and dropped only eleven games.

Derby Hopefuls Meet in Today's Jamaica Feature

Marine Victory Tops Five Run-for-Roses Eligibles in Field

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP) — Five Kentuck Derby hopefuls, including two of the East top threats—tangle tomorrow in a test that may indicate what they will do when the field turns for home and heads up the stretch at Churchill Downs May 4.

A horse has to run far as well as fast in that last quarter mile of the mile-and-a-quarter run for the roses, and in the mile-and-a-sixteenth of the experimental handicap at Jamaica tomorrow these five derby dandies will have the distance stretched out on them for the first time this season.

Topped by the Baltimore speedster, Robert Bruce Livie's Marine Victory, and the Connecticut star, Mrs. Vera S. Bragg's Mist O'Gold, the five derby eligibles in the field of seven going to the post must prove they can take the distance for the $11,150 Experimental payoff.

Off his ten-length win in his first 1946 outing—at Bowie last week—Marine Victory figures to be the choice of the 50,000 or more customers who will fill Jamaica for the second straight Saturday in spite of an extra five-percent tax the city is taking. However, Mist O'Gold showed in the Ponce de Leon handicap at Tropical during the winter that he can travel a mile-and-a-sixteenth, and if Jean Valjean's Big Son can do in the spring what he did in the winter he's a cinch to take that train ride to the Blue Grass nex month.

The other three derby nominees are Al Ernest's Alamond, a four-length winner in his first outing last Monday; J. B. Theall's New Orleans candidate, Islam Prince, and W. L. Brann's flashy filly, Challadette, full sister to the mighty Challedon.

The two non-derby dandies are Mrs. H. C. Phills's Misleader, a Preakness candidate trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons and a swift fifth-place finisher in Tuesday's test, and Dr. Joseph Bowley's unheralded Larkmead Andy, third in the same sprint.

—Last year the nation's 81,875 motor buses carried approximately 9,742,000,000 passengers, a recent survey shows. The vehicles traveled a total of 3,165,000,000 miles.

Maude Dusch, Plaintiff vs. Bernard A. Dusch, Defendant.

No. 19166 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII, divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant. The bill states that the parties were married at Uniontown, Pennsylvania, on the 20th day of February, 1926; that four children were born of said marriage whose custody and guardianship the plaintiff is seeking. That the defendant has deserted and abandoned the plaintiff without just cause or reason, and that the desertion has continued uninterruptedly for over eighteen months and is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, whereas the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 5th day of April, 1946, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 7th day of May, 1946, giving notice to the absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill and warning him to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 23rd day of May, 1946, show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Pellicle Wins Feature

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 12. (AP) —Hal Price Headley's Pellicle boosted his Kentucky Derby stock today by whipping two other Derby eligibles in the Elizabeth Daingerfield purse, feature of today's racing card at Kenneland.

The black gelding got away last in the field of three but soon overtook Calumet's High Shine and Fred Wyse's Here's How, a filly, to cover the six furlongs in 1:11 4-5. He paid $4.20 to win. There was no place or show betting.

Derby Hopefuls Meet in Today's Jamaica Feature

Marine Victory Tops Five Run-for-Roses Eligibles in Field

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP) — Five Kentuck Derby hopefuls, including two of the East top threats—tangle tomorrow in a test that may indicate what they will do when the field turns for home and heads up the stretch at Churchill Downs May 4.

A horse has to run far as well as fast in that last quarter mile of the mile-and-a-quarter run for the roses, and in the mile-and-a-sixteenth of the experimental handicap at Jamaica tomorrow these five derby dandies will have the distance stretched out on them for the first time this season.

Topped by the Baltimore speedster, Robert Bruce Livie's Marine Victory, and the Connecticut star, Mrs. Vera S. Bragg's Mist O'Gold, the five derby eligibles in the field of seven going to the post must prove they can take the distance for the $11,150 Experimental payoff.

Off his ten-length win in his first 1946 outing—at Bowie last week—Marine Victory figures to be the choice of the 50,000 or more customers who will fill Jamaica for the second straight Saturday in spite of an extra five-percent tax the city is taking. However, Mist O'Gold showed in the Ponce de Leon handicap at Tropical during the winter that he can travel a mile-and-a-sixteenth, and if Jean Valjean's Big Son can do in the spring what he did in the winter he's a cinch to take that train ride to the Blue Grass nex month.

The other three derby nominees are Al Ernest's Alamond, a four-length winner in his first outing last Monday; J. B. Theall's New Orleans candidate, Islam Prince, and W. L. Brann's flashy filly, Challadette, full sister to the mighty Challedon.

The two non-derby dandies are Mrs. H. C. Phills's Misleader, a Preakness candidate trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons and a swift fifth-place finisher in Tuesday's test, and Dr. Joseph Bowley's unheralded Larkmead Andy, third in the same sprint.

—Last year the nation's 81,875 motor buses carried approximately 9,742,000,000 passengers, a recent survey shows. The vehicles traveled a total of 3,165,000,000 miles.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Maude Dusch, Plaintiff vs. Bernard A. Dusch, Defendant.

No. 19166 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII, divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant. The bill states that the parties were married at Uniontown, Pennsylvania, on the 20th day of February, 1926; that four children were born of said marriage whose custody and guardianship the plaintiff is seeking. That the defendant has deserted and abandoned the plaintiff without just cause or reason, and that the desertion has continued uninterruptedly for over eighteen months and is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, whereas the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 5th day of April, 1946, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 7th day of May, 1946, giving notice to the absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill and warning him to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 23rd day of May, 1946, show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

ROBERT JACKSON.

Pellicle Wins Feature

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 12 (AP) —Hal Price Headley's Pellicle boosted his Kentucky Derby stock today by whipping two other Derby eligibles in the Elizabeth Daingerfield purse, feature of today's racing card at Kenneland.

The black gelding got away last in the field of three but soon overtook Calumet's High Shine and Fred Wyse's Here's How, a filly, to cover the six furlongs in 1:11 4-5. He paid $4.20 to win. There was no place or show betting.

Roosevelt Talks Are Scheduled By Radio Chain

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 12. (AP)—In tribute to the memory of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the first anniversary of whose death came Friday (today), NBC at 7 p. m. Saturday is presenting a special program: "Rendezvous with Destiny." The half-hour is to highlight excerpts from his outstanding speeches.

Because the bulk of the program will be made up of recordings, NBC is temporarily setting aside its rule against their use on the network. The speeches start with the late president's 1934 inaugural and conclude with the 1945 undelivered Jefferson day address.

Two programs are bidding goodbye to the networks for now. One is the first Nighter of CBS at 7:30 and the other, "Break the Bank," a kind of quiz, on MBS at 9:30. "The First Nighter's" adieu will be "The Devil Chimneys." ?

The Cincinnati symphony plays the "Orchestra of the Nation" hour on NBC at 3 under the direction of Eugene Gooseens . . . The Dallas symphony will have the concluding of two concerts on ABC at 4:55, to include Beethoven's ninth . . . The American Guild of Organists is making an honor presentation to Dr. Serg Koussevitsky in the Boston symphony hour of ABC at 9:30 . . . The "Chicago Theater of the Air" on MBS at 10 will do "Cavalleria Rusticana" as part of the annual Chicago music festival.

Dwight Cooke is taking over the interviews in "Cross Section," AFL, on CBS at 3:45 in place of Bill Downs.

Roosevelt Talks Are Scheduled By Radio Chain

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 12. (AP)—In tribute to the memory of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the first anniversary of whose death came Friday (today), NBC at 7 p. m. Saturday is presenting a special program: "Rendezvous with Destiny." The half-hour is to highlight excerpts from his outstanding speeches.

Because the bulk of the program will be made up of recordings, NBC is temporarily setting aside its rule against their use on the network. The speeches start with the late president's 1934 inaugural and conclude with the 1945 undelivered Jefferson day address.

Two programs are bidding goodbye to the networks for now. One is the first Nighter of CBS at 7:30 and the other, "Break the Bank," a kind of quiz, on MBS at 9:30. "The First Nighter's" adieu will be "The Devil Chimneys." ?

The Cincinnati symphony plays the "Orchestra of the Nation" hour on NBC at 3 under the direction of Eugene Gooseens . . . The Dallas symphony will have the concluding of two concerts on ABC at 4:55, to include Beethoven's ninth . . . The American Guild of Organists is making an honor presentation to Dr. Serg Koussevitsky in the Boston symphony hour of ABC at 9:30 . . . The "Chicago Theater of the Air" on MBS at 10 will do "Cavalleria Rusticana" as part of the annual Chicago music festival.

Dwight Cooke is taking over the interviews in "Cross Section," AFL, on CBS at 3:45 in place of Bill Downs.

In Memoriam

A tribute of love to the memory of our dear husband and father, Earl E. (Duke) Sandsbury, who passed away four years ago today, April 13, 1942.

The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought the end so near.
Only thos who have lost can tell
The pain of passing without farewell.

Some may think we are not lonely
When times they see us smile.
But little do they know the heartache
We suffer all the while.

Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To his grave so far away,
Where they laid our dearest loved one,
Just four years ago today.

WIFE AND CHILDREN.
4-13-1t-NT

In loving memory of Leo F. McKnight, who died two years ago today, April 13, 1944.

In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
More and more each day we miss you,
Though we think the wound is healed.
But little do they know the sorrow
That is in our hearts concealed.

WIFE AND DAUGHTER.

In Memoriam

A tribute of love to the memory of our dear husband and father, Earl E. (Duke) Sandsbury, who passed away four years ago today, April 13, 1942.

The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought the end so near.
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of passing without farewell.

Some may think we are not lonely
When times they see us smile,
But little do they know the heartache
We suffer all the while.

Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To his grave so far away,
Where they laid our dearest loved one,
Just four years ago today.

WIFE AND CHILDREN.
4-13-1t-NT

In loving memory of Leo F. McKnight, who died two years ago today, April 13, 1944.

In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
More and more each day we miss you,
Though we think the wound is healed,
But little do they know the sorrow
That is in our hearts concealed.

WIFE AND DAUGHTER.

James O'Neal Will Fight Supervision Of His Business

Refuses To Sign Agreement with Workshop for the Blind

James W. O'Neal, blind operator of the vending stand in the post office building, Pershing street, remains firm in his stand to keep the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, from taking over supervision and part of the receipts of his business.

Yesterday, William S. Ratchford, superintendent of the workshop, and secretary of the board of trustees, came here with Maurice I. Tynan, a representative of the United States Office of Education, a federal agency, and attempted to persuade O'Neal to sign an agreement with the state agency.

O'Neal received a communication from Ratchford a couple of weeks ago, saying that an inventory would be taken of his stock and he would be required to come under the supervision of the workshop.

O'Neal protested. He has been protesting ever since. Nearly every customer, and he has hundreds, stop for a minute to inquire about the situation, and either sympathize with him, question the system, or just walk away shaking their heads.

Control Is Resisted

The Maryland Workshop for the Blind, incorporated in 1908, has offices at 601 Fulton avenue, Baltimore, and is designed to assist the blind in the state. The board of trustees includes Arthur G. Barrett, M. D., chairman; John G. Schlipp, vice-chairman and counsel; Frederick A. Doifield, treasurer; William T. Shackleford, Sr., and Charles M. See. The latter from this city, is a member of the Allegany County delegation in the House of Representatives. He is also employed by the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, as "general manager of vending stands, state of Maryland." See does not operate a stand himself.

Associate members of the board inclued John F. Bledsoe, Francis M. Anderson, William S. Ratchford, secretary, E. Allen Schlipp, assistant secretary.

The motto of the Maryland Workshop for the Blind is, according to its letter head, "Help the Blind to Help Themselves Through Work."

O'Neal states that he and six other blind vending stand operators in Maryland have resisted efforts to bring their stands under agency control. He states the plan calls for supervision by the agency, and this means that he would be required to send his total gross receipts to the agency at the end of each week.

The weekly receipts would be checked, and two per cent deducted. The balance would be returned to O'Neal.

There are four blind vendors in public buildings here. O'Neal's brother operates a stand in the public safety building. He too has refused to come under agency control. The stand in the court house and the stand in the Union Street county building are under agency control. These two men pay their two per cent.

In the plan of auditing weekly receipts, the Maryland Workshop for the Blind guarantees these blind vendors a net minimum income of $18 per week. O'Neal maintains his stand is netting much more than

Petition To Test County's Liquor Law Is Filed

In a move designed to test the Allegany county liquor law, a petition for a writ of mandamus was filed in circuit court yesterday by Eldridge A. Cromwell, operator of the Elda inn, against Robert Jackson, clerk of court, asking him to show cause why a license for the sale of alcoholic beverages should not be issued to Cromwell.

Before the petition was filed here yesterday, Judge Joseph D. Mish at Hagerstown signed an order to be served on Johnson and the attorney general, directing them to show cause why the present law is constitutional.

In asking why he should not be issued a liquor license, Cromwell, represented by F. Neal Parke, Westminster, former judge of the court of appeals, asked for a review of the present county law to determine whether or not it is constitutional. Cromwell contends that it is not.

Filing of the petition for the writ of mandamus followed Cromwell's action of several months ago in which he filed for a liquor license under the acts of 1894, saying the present law is unconstitutional and that the 1894 legislation is in effect.

Jackson refused to issue the license under that act.

It was reported last night that Judge Mish signed the "show cause" order because Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper felt they would be disqualified because they have issued liquor licenses under the present law.

Under the provisions of the law, the circuit court restricts liquor licenses so that the number shall not exceed more than one to every 1,500 persons residing in the county. Under the last census, fifty-eight licenses are all that can be issued.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE FEATURED IN ARTICLE

Miss Grace Hardman, city public health nurse, is featured in an article on public health nursing in Allegany county, which will appear in the April 17 issue of "Pathfinder," a national weekly magazine, according to Dr. Joseph F. Franklin, city and county health officer.

The two-page article, prepared in observance of "Know Your Public Health Nurse" week, will include nine pictures of various phases of public health nursing in the county. Several of the pictures were taken at the Gephart school.

Dr. Franklin said arrangements for collecting material for the articles were made through the United States Public Health Service. Miss Gertrude Michalove of the office of health information, division of public health methods, USPHS, visited the county health department in March with Norman Driscoll, staff photographer for the magazine, who came here from Washington.

State Appeals Court Upholds County Judges

The Maryland Court of Appeals has affirmed the decision of Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper, of Allegany Circuit Court, in the suit of Frank Bennett against Frank Westfall. A verdict for Westfall was given in the case, which resulted from a dispute over a mortgage sale.

Thomas Lohr Richards was counsel for Westfall, with Edward J. Ryan representing Bennett. The case was submitted on briefs to the high court several weeks ago.

Textile Officials To Ask Rejection Of Celanese Offer

Holden Will Assist in Wage Negotiations at Amcelle Plant

William Boyd Coleman, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, said last evening that the officers and negotiating committee will recommend that a company offer of a five per cent wage increase be rejected at membership meetings planned next Wednesday and Thursday.

In a statement to the press, the union official said the union is unquestionably opposed to percentage increases in wages and that the offer is not acceptable since it excludes some 1,000 members from a wage boost.

Coleman's statement follows:

"The special membership meetings being called next Wednesday, April 17, at 7:30 p. m. and Thursday, April 18, at 10 a. m. are called by the Excutive board of Local 1874 in place of the regular membership meeting which is usually scheduled on the fourth Wednesday of every month.

"The regular membership meetings would fall on April 24, the date when the national convention of Textile Workers Union of America convenes in Atlantic City. Local 1874 is sending twenty-six delegates, including some of our officers. For this reason, the Executive board is calling the regular membership meetings April 17 and 18.

"At these meetings, the membership will act on the proposals of the company to increase wages five per cent, excluding Dyehouse, Warp Knitting, Cafeteria departments as well as janitors and sweepers from all sections of the plant.

"Although the wage offer of the company is not acceptable to the officers of our local union or to the negotiating committee, it is the general practice of the local union, in order to encourage membership participation in all affairs that concern them, to act on such matters as this.

The officers and the negotiating committee, representing our members in the present wage negotiations with the company, always have in the past and still are unquestionably opposed to percentage increases in wages, and we shall recommend to the membership at our meetings that they reject the offer of the company.

"Another thing we oppose and always will oppose is any wage increase that excludes members of curs. This wage offer of five per cent excludes those people working in warp knitting, dyehouse, cafeteria and all janitors and sweepers from all sections of the plant, thus 1,000 of our members would not receive any wage increase, which is very undesirable as far as the officers and negotiating committee are concerned, in view of our twelve cents per hour demand for all of our members.

"The company spokesman states that rates of pay in the dyehouse, warp knitting, and cafeteria departments as well as janitors and sweepers are the same as the rates being paid in the industry. I want to state personally that the average wages being paid in the Celanese plant are not as high as the average rates of pay being paid in the Rayon industry. Our demand of twelve cents per hour increase is necessary to help offset this inequitable condition.

Dispute Exists

"At the last regular membership meeting on March 27, the membership authorized the officers to notify the National Labor Relations Board that a dispute exists between our local union and the Celanese Corporation of America over wages.

"This was done to conform with the provisions of the Smith-Connally law, which states that thirty days prior to any strike vote or strike action we must notify the NLRB. This has been done and Commissioner James Holden from the U. S. Conciliation Service of the Department of Labor has been assigned to this dispute.

"As a result of this action, notifying the NLRB under the terms of the Smith-Conally law, our membership will decide at our meetings next week what action it wishes to take."

Scout Committee Outlines Plans For Advancement

All Troops in Potomac Council Will Participate in New Program

The fundamental processes of Boy Scout training and advancement were outlined and discussed at a meeting of Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America advancement committee, in scout headquarters last night, according to Kenneth R. Jackson, local scout executive.

During 1946, all troops in the district will compete in the Boy Scout "Triple A", program, under the plan of Advancement Achievement and Award.

The plan as adopted last night calls for immediate inventory of all troops to show what each boy expects to accomplish in the way of advancement during the year. An inventory advancement sheet will be filled in by each troop leader, showing just which grade each scout expects or hopes to achieve.

The report will show the number of tenderfoot scouts, second class scouts, first class scouts, tar, life and eagle scouts in each troop and will also show how many are expected in each troop at the end of the year.

Allowing for the enthusiasm with which boys may be inclined to overestimate themselves, troops will be asked to set objectives based upon seventy-percent of the anticipated gains. Each troop which reaches this total gain by the end of the year, Jackson explained, will receive a "Triple A" award, suitable for framing and hanging in the troop room.

Procedures have also been adopted for a definite plan of training, examining, reviewing and awarding. All four processes have been made the responsibility of the troop leaders. Advanced scouts may be assigned to train the boys not so far advanced. Examining will be done by a scoutmaster or his authorized representative.

Troop award nights, at which parents and guests will be invited are to be regular features of each troop, and emphasis is placed upon recognition of achievement.

The advancement committee has been studying the program for sometime, as a means of increasing interest, activity and advancement among scouts as individuals and as troops of the council.

Dr. John L. Dunkle is chairman of the Council advancement committee.

Coney Mill Workers Will Meet Tomorrow

Both present and former workers employed at the General Textile mill are asked to attend the meeting, the union official said. About 72 former workers have already been called back to the mill which formerly employed about 160 workers.

Service Organizations Will Attend Forum On Veterans Problems

At least sixty veterans organizations of this area have signified their intentions to attend a forum tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the City Hall auditorium when speakers will explain benefits for veterans and discuss major problems facing veterans and their dependents, Thomas F. Conlon, co-chairman for the meeting, reported yesterday.

Speakers will include Patrick Carroll, manager of the local USES; Francis Kenney, local manager of the Maryand Unemployment Board; Miss Ann Sloan, child welfare chairman of the Maryland department of the American Legion; Norman C. Stiles, Maryland Department service officer; T. Frank Lynch, Baltimore, chairman of the Legion's state department of rehabilitation committee; Hugh Shires, loan adviser for the Liberty Trust Company, and H. J. McNally, vocational educational adviser of Allegany county board of education.

The session is open to all veterans and their dependents, Conlon said.

Master Plumbers Seek Appointment Of City Inspector

A plan whereby a plumbing inspector may be appointed on a self-sustaining basis was presented to the mayor and city council yesterday by the Master Plumbers and Heating Contractors' Association of Cumberland.

Under the proposal permit fees ranging from fifty cents to $50 would be charged for both new and replacement work. The inspector would be paid ninety per cent of the fees up to a maximum of $500 monthly as his salary. He would be guaranteed $200 monthly and would furnish his own car.

The council took the suggestions under consideration and Mayor Thomas S. Post instructed City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett to prepare an ordinance covering the subject.

Some Unlicensed

The plan was proposed by Clyde W. Love, secretary of the association, and J. Monroe Sharer, president. They suggested that a master or registered plumber be named inspector and declared a master plumber would probably be better qualified because of experience in estimating and thus could determine if the proper fee was being paid.

Sharer and Love said there were fifteen master plumbers in Cumberland, and in contrast they stated there are about twenty-five unlicensed plumbers.

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, said that on the basis of present permits, the plan would not be self-sustaining. It was explained that only a few plumbing permits have been secured since the city abolished the post of plumbing inspector about five years ago.

Love and Sharer contend that many plumbing installations are not proper and are a danger to health. They believe a qualified inspector will overcome the danger.

Appears Legal

Heskett said the proposal appears to be legal as far as he knows. He asked what objection there would be to having a mechanic, not a plumber, replacing a piece of broken water pipe, especially as plumbers are hard to get.

Sharer and Love expressed no opposition and declared their chief interest is in having proper sanitary conditions. The plumbers said they know of cases where rain spout and rubber hose are being used instead of pipe.

Love said the ordinance should have teeth and that the individual having work done as well as the plumber contractor should be subject to penalties.

Sharer estimated that the inspector would earn $3,600 yearly.

The board of health met with the council and Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, health officer, said proper installation of plumbing can be a money saver to the property owner as there would be no need for correction work later.

The permit fees proposed would start with fifty cents for jobs under $50 and go up to $50 for work in excess of $5,000.

Police and Fire Officials Locate Shinbone Alley

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN

For a while it began to look as if the name Shinbone alley was just an interesting nickname given to an alley in the vicinity of Allegany hospital. We can't guarantee the results, pending an official pronouncement by city officials, but here's an account of our research into local geography.

The study began early this week after East Side firemen brought up the subject in reference to gentle upbraiding in Winding Up the Main Stem in the April 7 issue of the Sunday Times.

The item asserted some of the city's blaze battlers apparently have not taken time to study a recently issued guide book of this city since they dashed into Allegany hospital after they received a call to Shinbone alley and thought it was alongside the hospital. "In case you don't know either," the article explained, "it's off Baltimore avenue, near the Decatur street intersection."

Is Not Listed

East Side firemen were not in the least dogmatic about it, saying they had carefully studied the guide book, Polk's city directory and the latest city map and failed to find a trace of such an alley.

"All we know," fireman declared, "is that when we're called to put out a fire in Shinbone alley we found the blaze in an alley off Front street."

A city fireman located Shinbone alley as the one running from above the Hafer funeral home to Glenn street.

An old resident was no help at all and stated "I've been around here for a long time but I'll be darned if I've ever heard of the place."

An ex-soldier just shrugged and said, "It beats the heck out of me."

Trail Gets Warm

The trail began to get warm when Desk Sgt. John H. Sherry and Officer Ernest M. Powell both recalled that a man had been found dead near Shinbone alley a little more than a year ago.

Capt. William Lindner, of Central Fire Department, one of the authorities on local geography, declared definitely that Shinbone alley begins on Front street and continues through Henderson avenue and intersects with the alley which runs from Glenn street to Baltimore avenue. He added Shinbone alley is just a nickname but is authentic enough since it has stuck for twenty-five years.

Assistant Chief of Police John J. Treiber, Detective Lt. R. Emmett Flynn and Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka all concurred with Capt. Lindner and declared the alley has gone by that name as long as they can remember.

Railroad Engine Used To Block Mine Pickets

Stanley Coal Company Mine near Crelling Will Close Today

A seventy-ton Shay stemwinder engine of the Preston railroad was used as a road block at a road crossing near the West Virginia-Maryland line near Crellin yesterday morning when a motorcade of several hundred roving pickets, led by Cecil J. Urbaniak, vice president of District 31, United Mine Workers of America, approached the Stanley Coal Company mine nearby, company officials reported last night.

Urbaniak said two men on the locomotive were armed, according to the Associated Press, but Stanley Ashby, general manager of the mine, told the Cumberland News he was on the engine with Jacob Hayes, the engineer, and Harold Lantz and that none of them carried any weapons.

However, the company and Urbaniak said there was no violence. The company added that a conference has been arranged for today between the company and District 31 representatives.

Mining for Hospitals

A company spokesman said the Stanley mine is not organized and that about 100 employes have been mining coal "100 per cent" during the strike for five Baltimore hospitals and institutions of the state of Maryland. About 500 tons of coal a day are being mined, he said.

Asked the reason for the road block, one company official said it was done to "keep the pickets from bothering the men." He said the company was willing to talk to Urbaniak or its own men but did not "want to talk to a mob."

Urbaniak then talked with company representatives and decided on the conference for today. A company spokesman said an agreement was reached that the union would not "pull our pickets out of the mines" yesterday and "we would not work" today.

Other Mines Closed

The Stanley Coal Company operates eight other mines, employing about 200 men in the Kingwood and Howesville sections, but the union shut them down last week, according to one spokesman for the company.

He added that he has little hope the union will permit the mine near Crellin to operate despite the fact that the coal is being sold "100 per cent" to hospitals and state institutions.

A representative of the company said the motorcade was composed of about thirty-eight carloads of about 200 pickets. He said they violated no trespassing signs on the company property and indicated those signs had been erected because of the strike situation. According to the Associated Press, Urbaniak said nearly 400 miners were in the seventy-six cars of the motorcade.

The AP also quoted Urbaniak as saying that peaceable arrangements to close the mine were made with the mine management. He added that a conference between leaders of the motorcade and mine operators resulted in a company agreement to shut down at the close of business yesterday.

One company official said the motorcade, composed of miners of Marion and Monongalia counties, originally timed their trip to reach the mine before miners went to work at 6 a. m., but were delayed by snow on Caddell mountain and did not arrive until about 8:30 a. m.

Coal Company Property

The road block by the stemwinder engine took place on coal company property just across the Maryland line in Preston county, West Virginia. A Maryland state road ends at the line and a private road built and maintained by the coal company continues from the line to the coal mine. It is built on railroad property.

Stockholders of the Preston railroad, which hauls coal from the Stanley mines to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Hutton, are the same as stockholders of the coal company, but they are two separate corporations.

The closing of the Preston county mines brought an expression of gratitude from UMW President John L. Lewis, who said that the pickets had brought about the first time the closing of mines in that area during contract disputes.

James O'Neal Will Fight Supervision Of His Business

Refuses To Sign Agreement with Workshop for the Blind

James W. O'Neal, blind operator of the vending stand in the post office building, Pershing street, remains firm in his stand to keep the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, from taking over supervision and part of the receipts of his business.

Yesterday, William S. Ratchford, superintendent of the workshop, and secretary of the board of trustees, came here with Maurice I. Tynan, a representative of the United States Office of Education, a federal agency, and attempted to persuade O'Neal to sign an agreement with the state agency.

O'Neal received a communication from Ratchford a couple of weeks ago, saying that an inventory would be taken of his stock and he would be required to come under the supervision of the workshop.

O'Neal protested. He has been protesting ever since. Nearly every customer, and he has hundreds, stop for a minute to inquire about the situation, and either sympathize with him, question the system, or just walk away shaking their heads.

Control Is Resisted

The Maryland Workshop for the Blind, incorporated in 1908, has offices at 601 Fulton avenue, Baltimore, and is designed to assist the blind in the state. The board of trustees includes Arthur G. Barrett, M. D., chairman; John G. Schlipp, vice-chairman and counsel; Frederick A. Dolfield, treasurer; William T. Shackleford, Sr., and Charles M. See. The latter from this city, is a member of the Allegany County delegation in the House of Representatives. He is also employed by the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, as "general manager of vending stands, state of Maryland." See does not operate a stand himself.

Associate members of the board inclued John F. Bledsoe, Francis M. Anderson, William S. Ratchford, secretary, E. Allen Schlipp, assistant secretary.

The motto of the Maryland Workshop for the Blind is, according to its letter head, "Help the Blind to Help Themselves Through Work."

O'Neal states that he and six other blind vending stand operators in Maryland have resisted efforts to bring their stands under agency control. He states the plan calls for supervision by the agency, and this means that he would be required to send his total gross receipts to the agency at the end of each week.

The weekly receipts would be checked, and two per cent deducted. The balance would be returned to O'Neal.

There are four blind vendors in public buildings here. O'Neal's brother operates a stand in the public safety building. He too has refused to come under agency control. The stand in the court house and the stand in the Union Street county building are under agency control. These two men pay their two per cent.

In the plan of auditing weekly receipts, the Maryland Workshop for the Blind guarantees these blind vendors a net minimum income of $15 per week. O'Neal maintains his stand is netting much more than

Petition To Test County's Liquor Law Is Filed

In a move designed to test the Allegany county liquor law, a petition for a writ of mandamus was filed in circuit court yesterday by Eldridge A. Cromwell, operator of the Elda inn, against Robert Jackson, clerk of court, asking him to show cause why a license for the sale of alcoholic beverages should not be issued to Cromwell.

Before the petition was filed here yesterday, Judge Joseph D. Mish at Hagerstown signed an order to be served on Johnson and the attorney general, directing them to show cause why the present law is constitutional.

In asking why he should not be issued a liquor license, Cromwell, represented by F. Neal Parke, Westminster, former judge of the court of appeals, asked for a review of the present county law to determine whether or not it is constitutional. Cromwell contends that it is not.

Filing of the petition for the writ of mandamus followed Cromwell's action of several months ago in which he filed for a liquor license under the acts of 1894, saying the present law is unconstitutional and that the 1894 legislation is in effect.

Jackson refused to issue the license under that act.

It was reported last night that Judge Mish signed the "show cause" order because Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper felt they would be disqualified because they have issued liquor licenses under the present law.

Under the provisions of the law, the circuit court restricts liquor licenses so that the number shall not exceed more than one to every 1,500 persons residing in the county. Under the last census, fifty-eight licenses are all that can be issued.

Textile Officials To Ask Rejection Of Celanese Offer

Holden Will Assist in Wage Negotiations at Amcelle Plant

William Boyd Coleman, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, said last evening that the officers and negotiating committee will recommend that a company offer of a five per cent wage increase be rejected at membership meetings planned next Wednesday and Thursday.

In a statement to the press, the union official said the union is unquestionably opposed to percentage increases in wages and that the offer is not acceptable since it excludes some 1,000 members from a wage boost.

Coleman's statement follows:

"The special membership meetings being called next Wednesday, April 17, at 7:30 p. m. and Thursday, April 18, at 10 a. m. are called by the Excutive board of Local 1874 in place of the regular membership meeting which is usually scheduled on the fourth Wednesday of every month.

"The regular membership meetings would fall on April 24, the date when the national convention of Textile Workers Union of America convenes in Atlantic City. Local 1874 is sending twenty-six delegates, including some of our officers. For this reason, the Executive board is calling the regular membership meetings April 17 and 18.

"At these meetings, the membership will act on the proposals of the company to increase wages five per cent, excluding Dyehouse, Warp Knitting, Cafeteria departments as well as janitors and sweepers from all sections of the plant.

"Although the wage offer of the company is not acceptable to the officers of our local union or to the negotiating committee, it is the general practice of the local union, in order to encourage membership participation in all affairs that concern them, to act on such matters as this.

The officers and the negotiating committee, representing our members in the present wage negotiations with the company, always have in the past and still are unquestionably opposed to percentage increases in wages, and we shall recommend to the membership at our meetings that they reject the offer of the company.

"Another thing we oppose and always will oppose is any wage increase that excludes members of ours. This wage offer of five per cent excludes those people working in warp knitting, dyehouse, cafeteria and all janitors and sweepers from all sections of the plant, thus 1,000 of our members would not receive any wage increase, which is very undesirable as far as the officers and negotiating committee are concerned, in view of our twelve cents per hour demand for all of our members.

"The company spokesman states that rates of pay in the dyehouse, warp knitting, and cafeteria departments as well as janitors and sweepers are the same as the rates being paid in the industry. I want to state personally that the average wages being paid in the Celanese plant are not as high as the average rates of pay being paid in the Rayon industry. Our demand of twelve cents per hour increase is necessary to help offset this inequitable condition.

Dispute Exists

"At the last regular membership meeting on March 27, the membership authorized the officers to notify the National Labor Relations Board that a dispute exists between our local union and the Celanese Corporation of America over wages.

"This was done to conform with the provisions of the Smith-Connally law, which states that thirty days prior to any strike vote or strike action we must notify the NLRB. This has been done and Commissioner James Holden from the U. S. Conciliation Service of the Department of Labor has been assigned to this dispute.

"As a result of this action, notifying the NLRB under the terms of the Smith-Conally law, our membership will decide at our meetings next week what action it wishes to take."

Scout Committee Outlines Plans For Advancement

All Troops in Potomac Council Will Participate in New Program

The fundamental processes of Boy Scout training and advancement were outlined and discussed at a meeting of Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America advancement committee, in scout headquarters last night, according to Kenneth R. Jackson, local scout executive.

During 1946, all troops in the district will compete in the Boy Scout "Triple A", program, under the plan of Advancement Achievement and Award.

The plan as adopted last night calls for immediate inventory of all troops to show what each boy expects to accomplish in the way of advancement during the year. An inventory advancement sheet will be filled in by each troop leader, showing just which grade each scout expects or hopes to achieve.

The report will show the number of tenderfoot scouts, second class scouts, first class scouts, tar, life and eagle scouts in each troop and will also show how many are expected in each troop at the end of the year.

Allowing for the enthusiasm with which boys may be inclined to overestimate themselves, troops will be asked to set objectives based upon seventy-percent of the anticipated gains. Each troop which reaches this total gain by the end of the year, Jackson explained, will receive a "Triple A" award, suitable for framing and hanging in the troop room.

Procedures have also been adopted for a definite plan of training, examining, reviewing and awarding. All four processes have been made the responsibility of the troop leaders. Advanced scouts may be assigned to train the boys not so far advanced. Examining will be done by a scoutmaster or his authorized representative.

Troop award nights, at which parents and guests will be invited are to be regular features of each troop, and emphasis is placed upon recognition of achievement.

The advancement committee has been studying the program for sometime, as a means of increasing interest, activity and advancement among scouts as individuals and as troops of the council.

Dr. John L. Dunkle is chairman of the Council advancement committee.

Master Plumbers Seek Appointment Of City Inspector

A plan whereby a plumbing inspector may be appointed on a self-sustaining basis was presented to the mayor and city council yesterday by the Master Plumbers and Heating Contractors' Association of Cumberland.

Under the proposal permit fees ranging from fifty cents to $50 would be charged for both new and replacement work. The inspector would be paid ninety per cent of the fees up to a maximum of $500 monthly as his salary. He would be guaranteed $200 monthly and would furnish his own car.

The council took the suggestions under consideration and Mayor Thomas S. Post instructed City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett to prepare an ordinance covering the subject.

Some Unlicensed

The plan was proposed by Clyde W. Love, secretary of the association, and J. Monroe Sharer, president. They suggested that a master or registered plumber be named inspector and declared a master plumber would probably be better qualified because of experience in estimating and thus could determine if the proper fee was being paid.

Sharer and Love said there were fifteen master plumbers in Cumberland, and in contrast they stated there are about twenty-five unlicensed plumbers.

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, said that on the basis of present permits, the plan would not be self-sustaining. It was explained that only a few plumbing permits have been secured since the city abolished the post of plumbing inspector about five years ago.

Love and Sharer contend that many plumbing installations are not proper and are a danger to health. They believe a qualified inspector will overcome the danger.

Appears Legal

Heskett said the proposal appears to be legal as far as he knows. He asked what objection there would be to having a mechanic, not a plumber, replacing a piece of broken water pipe, especially as plumbers are hard to get.

Sharer and Love expressed no opposition and declared their chief interest is in having proper sanitary conditions. The plumbers said they know of cases where rain spout and rubber hose are being used instead of pipe.

Love said the ordinance should have teeth and that the individual having work done as well as the plumber contractor should be subject to penalties.

Sharer estimated that the inspector would earn $3,600 yearly.

The board of health met with the council and Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, health officer, said proper installation of plumbing can be a money saver to the property owner as there would be no need for correction work later.

The permit fees proposed would start with fifty cents for jobs under $50 and go up to $50 for work in excess of $5,000.

Police and Fire Officials Locate Shinbone Alley

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN

For a while it began to look as if the name Shinbone alley was just an interesting nickname given to an alley in the vicinity of Allegany hospital. We can't guarantee the results, pending an official pronouncement by city officials, but here's an account of our research into local geography.

The study began early this week after East Side firemen brought up the subject in reference to gentle upbraiding in Winding Up the Main Stem in the April 7 issue of the Sunday Times.

The item asserted some of the city's blaze battlers apparently have not taken time to study a recently issued guide book of this city since they dashed into Allegany hospital after they received a call to Shinbone alley and thought it was alongside the hospital. "In case you don't know either," the article explained, "it's off Baltimore avenue, near the Decatur street intersection."

Is Not Listed

East Side firemen were not in the least dogmatic about it, saying they had carefully studied the guide book, Polk's city directory and the latest city map and failed to find a trace of such an alley.

"All we know," fireman declared, "is that when we're called to put out a fire in Shinbone alley we found the blaze in an alley off Front street."

The switchboard operator here at the office at least gave a lead saying, "I think it is over about Bellevue street."

A helpful policeman gently scratched his head and said, "Well, now, I'm not real sure, but I believe it is over in the Oldtown road section."

A city fireman located Shinbone alley as the one running from above the Hafer funeral home to Glenn street.

An old resident was no help at all and stated "I've been around here for a long time but I'll be darned if I've ever heard of the place."

An ex-soldier just shrugged and said, "It beats the heck out of me."

Trail Gets Warm

The trail began to get warm when Desk Sgt. John H. Sherry and Officer Ernest M. Powell both recalled that a man had been found dead near Shinbone alley a little more than a year ago.

Capt. William Lindner, of Central Fire Department, one of the authorities on local geography, declared definitely that Shinbone alley begins on Front street and continues through Henderson avenue and intersects with the alley which runs from Glenn street to Baltimore avenue. He added Shinbone alley is just a nickname but is authentic enough since it has stuck for twenty-five years.

Assistant Chief of Police John J. Treiber, Detective Lt. R. Emmett Flynn and Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka all concurred with Capt. Lindner and declared the alley has gone by that name as long as they can remember.

Railroad Engine Used To Block Mine Pickets

Stanley Coal Company Mine near Crelling Will Close Today

A seventy-ton Shay stemwinder engine of the Preston railroad was used as a road block at a road crossing near the West Virginia-Maryland line near Crellin yesterday morning when a motorcade of several hundred roving pickets, led by Cecil J. Urbaniak, vice president of District 31, United Mine Workers of America, approached the Stanley Coal Company mine nearby, company officials reported last night.

Urbaniak said two men on the locomotive were armed, according to the Associated Press, but Stanley Ashby, general manager of the mine, told the Cumberland News he was on the engine with Jacob Hayes, the engineer, and Harold Lantz and that none of them carried any weapons.

However, the company and Urbaniak said there was no violence. The company added that a conference has been arranged for today between the company and District 31 representatives.

Mining for Hospitals

A company spokesman said the Stanley mine is not organized and that about 100 employes have been mining coal "100 per cent" during the strike for five Baltimore hospitals and institutions of the state of Maryland. About 500 tons of coal a day are being mined, he said.

Asked the reason for the road block, one company official said it was done to "keep the pickets from bothering the men." He said the company was willing to talk to Urbaniak or its own men but did not "want to talk to a mob."

The roving pickets remained at the road block for about ten minutes, according to the company, then left and came to the mine by another route, by way of Hopemont and Freeport, W. Va.

Urbaniak then talked with company representatives and decided on the conference for today. A company spokesman said an agreement was reached that the union would not "pull our pickets out of the mines" yesterday and "we would not work" today.

Other Mines Closed

The Stanley Coal Company operates eight other mines, employing about 200 men in the Kingwood and Howesville sections, but the union shut them down last week, according to one spokesman for the company.

He added that he has little hope the union will permit the mine near Crellin to operate despite the fact that the coal is being sold "100 per cent" to hospitals and state institutions.

A representative of the company said the motorcade was composed of about thirty-eight carloads of about 200 pickets. He said they violated no trespassing signs on the company property and indicated those signs had been erected because of the strike situation. According to the Associated Press, Urbaniak said nearly 400 miners were in the seventy-six cars of the motorcade.

The AP also quoted Urbaniak as saying that peaceable arrangements to close the mine were made with the mine management. He added that a conference between leaders of the motorcade and mine operators resulted in a company agreement to shut down at the close of business yesterday.

One company official said the motorcade, composed of miners of Marion and Monongalia counties, originally timed their trip to reach the mine before miners went to work at 6 a. m., but were delayed by snow on Caddell mountain and did not arrive until about 8:30 a. m.

Coal Company Property

The road block by the stemwinder engine took place on coal company property just across the Maryland line in Preston county, West Virginia. A Maryland state road ends at the line and a private road built and maintained by the coal company continues from the line to the coal mine. It is built on railroad property.

Stockholders of the Preston railroad, which hauls coal from the Stanley mines to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Hutton, are the same as stockholders of the coal company, but they are two separate corporations.

The closing of the Preston county mines brought an expression of gratitude from UMW President John L. Lewis, who said that the pickets had brought about the first time the closing of mines in that area during contract disputes.

Lewis's message was delivered to the district personnel through District President C. Fremont Davis.
